Opposes Cloture To Kill Off Filibuster

Senate Vote Deals Blow To 'Section 14-B' Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor leaders and President Johnson may have lost their battle for repeal of state authority to ban the union shop when they lost on a Senate debate limitation vote.

The Senate's 47-45 vote Monday against invoking its cloture rule to kill off a filibuster against a House-passed bill of this nature indicated that organized opposition probably will be able to block a passage vote even in 1966 on the bill as it stands.

With this prospect ahead, labor leaders and the President may have to accept dilution of the simple repealer to include some new federal restrictions on the union — particularly in the civil rights field — to enlist enough support to kill any subsequent filibusters and force a final vote. Even that may not be enough.

The imposition of cloture requires approval of two-thirds of those voting. The bill's supporters fell 17 short of that mark Monday and didn't even muster a majority.

However, the announcement of positions of senators not recorded on the roll call showed a 50-50 division on the issue. If this held, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, active in plugging the measure, could supply the deciding vote if it ever came up for final passage.

Estimates are that five senators who might favor the bill's passage voted against limiting debate as a matter of principle. But if even 45 members remained committed against it, there would be almost no chance of stopping the lengthy talk which would develop almost automatically against any later attempt to bring it up.

The proposal which touched off the filibuster a week ago Monday would repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

This section allows states to outlaw union shop contracts between unions and companies — agreements which make union membership a condition for continued employment. Nineteen states now have laws that prohibit union shop contracts.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, leading the fight against the proposal, voiced confidence in an interview that popular sentiment is building up for his side. He said labor leaders had shot their bolt with an intense lobbying campaign and their cause was on the downgrade.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told his colleagues there was "no other rational way" to get action on the bill other than to invoke cloture. He declined to outline his future course other than to say debate would continue, at least temporarily.

Results Reported Meager U.S. Troops Press Hunt For Reds In South Viet

2 American Jet Bombers Are Downed

Pilots Ejected And Are Rescued; 75 Of Communists Killed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Thousands of U.S. combat troops pressed their hunt for the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam's central highlands and the Communists' Zone D but results today were meager.

Communist gunners shot down one U.S. jet bomber over North Viet Nam and another in South Viet Nam. The pilots ejected and were rescued unhurt, spokesmen said.

At least 97 guerrillas were reported killed in the two big ground operations, but there was little or no contact today, spokesmen said.

In the central highlands, troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile Division killed 16 Viet Cong and captured 56 in the Soui La Tinh Valley 280 miles north of Saigon.

U.S. troops drew only sporadic sniper fire today after an exchange of small arms fire with the guerrillas Monday night, a U.S. military spokesman said. There was no report on U.S. casualties.

The big U.S. - Vietnamese pincer movement in the valley has not made contact with the North Vietnamese 325th Division, reported last week to be in the area.

In the thick jungles of Zone D, about 30 miles northeast of Saigon, the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade reportedly has killed 81 Viet Cong in five days. U.S. and Australian troops continued their big sweep of the Communist "Iron Triangle" area.

In other ground actions, Vietnamese troops reported killing 72 guerrillas at scattered points, including an area five miles west of Saigon. A government unit suffered moderate casualties in a Viet Cong ambush 40 miles southwest of the capital.

Five Viet Cong were reported killed by the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 20 miles northeast of Saigon in two days. Paratroopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Brigade killed 10 guerrillas north of the port of Qui Nhon, 260 miles north of Saigon, a spokesman said.

Gum-based U.S. B52 jet bombers blasted a suspected Viet Cong staging area before dawn 20 miles northeast of Saigon in Binh Duong Province.

CUBAN REFUGEES. Women and children crowd the rails of a U.S. Coast Guard boat while in the foreground the stolen MMM from Miami comes to port with refugee Cubans aboard. A total of 17 refugees were on the MMM, but coast guardsmen took all children and women aboard their ship. This was the first group of refugees actually to reach U.S. from Cuba with Fidel Castro's blessings.

Castro Word Waited On Orderly Migration

2 More Boats Of Cuban Refugees Head For U.S.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Two more boatloads of Cuban refugees were guided toward Key West today by the Coast Guard as U.S. officials awaited word from Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro on suggestions for an orderly migration.

The Communist party paper Granma reported in Havana that the boats — the Shark and F5846 — left the fishing port of Camarioca with 18 persons on board. The Coast Guard, however, said there were 23 Cubans on the ships.

The paper said six boats now are waiting to take refugees to Florida, where worried state officials emphasized that the southern part of the state can handle no more refugees.

It was not known how many of the Cubans on board the Shark and F5846 were refugees or if the boats were piloted by exiles from Florida.

Earlier, Havana radio, monitored in Miami, reported six boats piloted by Cuban exiles in Florida arrived at Camarioca Sunday to bring out relatives.

Ike Flores, Associated Press writer in Cuba, reported four boats from Florida were at Camarioca that day, including the MMM which departed at noon and arrived here Monday.

One U.S. official said there may be as many as five or six boats now in Cuba, but he added there was no indication of a mass movement at this time.

U.S. officials, who had suggested that the exodus proceed along orderly lines by mutual agreement, said Castro had made no reply through the Swiss Embassy in Havana, which is acting as intermediary.

While the Havana radio said Camarioca "is now operating as an organized international port," U.S. officials emphasized they are seeking to prevent the migration until the two governments can agree on ground rules.

Gov. Haydon Burns of Florida told the Miami Beach Press-herald that south Florida, with an estimated 100,000 Cuban exiles, had all it could handle.

While expressing accord with President Johnson's "open door" policy of providing a haven for citizens seeking to flee Communist countries, Burns said the problem is one for the nation to face.

He proposed that public housing be made available to handle the influx of refugees under Castro's offer, that relief checks of refugees be revoked if they refuse to go where assigned and stay there, and that refugees be assured the United States will pay their way from the settlement city to Miami or other port of embarkation when conditions permit their return to a free Cuba.

At Miami, school Supt. Joe Hall directed Dade County's 208 public school principals not to admit "new wave" Cuban refugee children to classes until federal funds are available for classrooms and teachers.

Hearing Date Set In Phillis' Appeal Action

Civil Service Unit To Hear Dismissal Argument Oct. 20

An Ohio Civil Service Commission hearing has been set for Oct. 20 on an appeal filed by Russell Phillis, discharged last week by the Columbiana County commissioners as superintendent of the County Home near Lisbon.

It is scheduled for 10 a.m. at the State Office Building in Columbus.

William Brokaw of East Liverpool, counsel for Phillis, said he has requested the hearing be held at Lisbon, but has not received an answer to his request.

Phillis and his wife, who is matron of the home, are still residing at the home, which is now being supervised by Lawrence J. Pike, appointed temporary director by the commissioners.

Phillis, who served as superintendent for seven years, was released on grounds of inefficiency, insubordination, drunkenness, abuse of residents of the home and failure to properly perform his duties.

The discharge letter was signed by Commissioners Max Gard and Frank Wilson, Democrats, who have been feuding with Phillis for some time. Commissioner James Boyd, Republican, did not sign the letter.

The commissioners Monday authorized Pike to hire an assistant at the home at a salary of $300 a month.

Cynthia Truax wasn't "looking over" four-leaf clovers, she was looking right at them!

Cynthia, 9 - year - old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Truax of Route 39, Wellsville, should have enough good luck charms to last her a life time.

While riding her pony Sunday afternoon, she saw a patch in the yard of a neighbor. She dismounted and began looking.

The result: 200 four-leavers and 65 five-leavers!

Who Discovered America?

Yale Historians' Map Puts Ericson Here First

NEW YORK (AP) — On this Columbus Day America's not-quite-melted pot of nationalities are vying for the last word on who got here first.

A map verified as authentic by Yale University historians puts Norse explorer Leif Ericson in the New World ahead of Christopher Columbus.

But don't count out the Irish. Or the Spanish or the Jews, for that matter.

Release of the map by Yale has stirred up a scholarly vendetta by Italian-Americans out to protect the good name of fellow Italian Columbus.

Yale historians said after eight years of study that the map was drawn about 1440 — some 438 years after Ericson made his voyage and 52 years before Columbus made his.

The map, which went on display today at the university in New Haven, Conn., shows Europe, Greenland and an island called Vinland. This island — also called Vinland and Vinlandia — was North America, the historians concluded.

In Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno said the Yale scholars were prompted by "ethnic prejudices."

As for the accurate reproduction of Greenland and the supposed Vinlandia. "Why not?" said Musmanno. "It was produced 500 years after Columbus' voyages and the fabricators could have, if they wanted to, illustrate the map with photographs of Greenland and Vinlandia."

Victor A. Arrigo, chairman of the Chicago Columbus Day parade, observed:

"Frankly, this Nordic myth makes its appearance around every Columbus Day. It happens all the time. But Italian-Americans have become tolerant of these Scandinavian claims. I don't blame them for wanting to come into the shadow of Columbus' accomplishments."

The Yale discovery was supported by at least two Scandinavian-Americans.

The Viking's discovery and exploration of America "is just simply a matter of historical record," said Dr. S.O. Thorlaksson, a retired San Carlos, Calif., clergyman and past president of two Leif Ericson League chapters in the San Francisco area.

"Columbus never did set foot on American soil. Ericson explored the New World for a year," he said.

Thor Tollefson, a former Republican congressman now director of the Washington State Department of Fisheries, told an Ericson festival:

"I'm no historian or authority, except that I share the belief of most Norwegians that Ericson did come over to this country around the year 1000. I don't think there's any question about it. The map is just additional historic evidence."

And from Madrid came word that Spanish historians were again looking into the theory that a forgotten Spanish sailor, Alonso Sanchez de Huelva, may have discovered America in 1484, eight years before Columbus.

Some historians contend that although Columbus was born in Italy he actually was a descendant of Spanish or Portuguese Jews.

One of the most succinct and pointed observations was scrawled in chalk on a wall in East Boston, an Italian-American section. It said:

"Leif Ericson is a fink."

Further Recovery Reported

Johnson Heeds Doctors' Orders On Activity Curb

WASHINGTON (AP) — An early morning bulletin indicated further recovery progress today for President Johnson, but for the time being he was heeding doctors' orders to hold his activities and visitors to a minimum.

The hospital chart showed no official appointments for the day.

The brief early morning report posted for newsmen said: "The President had a good night's sleep. He awoke at 7 o'clock this morning. He continued to experience mild discomfort. He is no longer getting intravenous feeding. He walks unassisted."

How long the hold-down on Johnson's activity would last was a question. He recalls he grew up singing "Work, for the night is coming."

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers passed word Monday night that the President's schedule for today was visitor-free.

Monday started off that way, too. But then it wound up with Johnson conferring for 45 minutes with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and 60 more with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

These sessions were spaced out, with a nap in between. Even so they followed Johnson's worst night since his operation Friday for removal of the gall bladder and a kidney stone.

And they followed word from the doctors that the President should have plenty of rest.

As Moyers put it:

"They did advise him that they must insist that he take every opportunity to rest; that he maintain a very minimum schedule in the next few weeks; that he hold his official callers to a minimum."

According to plan, the President received no sedative Sunday night and the result was restlessness, sleeplessness and discomfort and what Moyers called "his most unpleasant night since the operation."

Then between the Humphrey and Rusk calls, Johnson spent what Moyers called "a very quiet midday and afternoon."

Moyers said the President rested better during the afternoon than he did the night before. For enjoyment, Johnson saw a film on television of the "Hello, Dolly!" performance in South Viet Nam by a cast headed by Mary Martin.

Moyers said Johnson got off a second telegram of appreciation to Miss Martin — he had sent one right after the performance (Turn to JOHNSON, Page 11)

Thursday Hearing Set In Sunday Sales Case

A hearing is slated at County Court in East Palestine Thursday afternoon at 1 for representatives of the Hills Brothers Department Store of Calcutta, charged with violation of the Ohio Sunday Sales Law.

A complaint was filed Monday in Judge Herbert Arfman's Court by Dayton Allen, operator of a city shoe store. Allen is also president of the East Liverpool Merchants Association.

The St. Clair Plaza store is charged with conducting sales Sunday in violation of the state regulation.

FBI Seeking $14.7 Million In Expansion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taking its lead from President Johnson, the FBI is urging Congress to take emergency action on a base to train more officers in the war against crime.

Rather than wait for next year's budget, the FBI is asking for a supplemental appropriation of $14,763,000 to expand training facilities at its National Academy at Quantico, Va.

Some members of a House Appropriations subcommittee who expressed surprise and noted that such a deficiency request was supposed "to be something of an emergency nature" were reminded of a paragraph in Johnson's special crime message last week.

"To meet their large and growing burdens, state and local enforcement agencies must have additional training and technical assistance from the federal government."

John P. Mohr, assistant to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, explained in testimony from a closed meeting made public today. "The urgency for the academy at this time is to gear it with the President's drive to do something about crime, to reduce crime, if possible."

As it stands now, Mohr said, the academy trains only 200 state and local police officers, in addition to the FBI's own agents, at two six-week sessions each year.

"We feel with this new academy located at Quantico next to our firearms ranges, we can provide training for up to 1,200 police officers in our regular National Academy with another 1,000 per year getting specialized types of training," Mohr said.

Los Angeles Hopes Mount For 4 In Row

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, ahead 3-2 after three straight World Series victories, work out at Chavez Ravine today, then fly to Minneapolis for Wednesday's sixth game against the Minnesota Twins.

Dodger hopes for four straight victories rose after Monday's 7-0 triumph at Dodger Stadium. But there were no flamboyant predictions in the Los Angeles dressing room. The players recall what happened last time.

The team left for Minneapolis-St. Paul and the start of the Series amid predictions they'd win a four-game sweep. Instead both Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax lost as Minnesota swept the first pair.

The oddsmakers now list the two teams as even, although they said there might be some changes after Minnesota Manager Sam Mele announces his choice of starting pitcher. The Dodgers' Walt Alston has already named his starter: Claude Osteen.

Reds Flee To Escape Army Dragnet Head Of Attempted Coup In Indonesia Is Captured

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Jakarta radio today announced the capture of the leader of the attempted coup in Indonesia, and thousands of Communists were reported taking to the hills of central Java to escape an army dragnet.

The army - controlled government radio said the coup leader, Lt. Col. Untung, was arrested in the Tegay region of central Java with the cooperation of civilians.

The broadcast gave no details of the capture.

Untung was an obscure officer in President Sukarno's bodyguard until he led the "30th of September" movement that tried to seize power on that date.

There has been speculation abroad that Sukarno masterminded the attempt to get rid of army generals who opposed the increasing Communist influence on the Indonesian government. Radio Jakarta also reported,

Britain Under UN Pressure On Rhodesia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain was under mounting U.N. pressure today to use force against Rhodesia's white minority if the minority declares the central African Colony independent.

The General Assembly was expected to ratify an urgent call by its trusteeship committee for Britain "to use all possible measures" to block a Rhodesian declaration of independence or, if Rhodesia does break away, to "take all steps necessary" to end the rebellion.

The committee's 95-2 vote followed the collapse of talks in London between Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson on the future of the colony. Smith headed home still demanding independence on his terms of white-minority rule.

The trusteeship committee's resolution was supported by the United States, the Soviet Union and the Asian-African group.

County Puts New Number On Old Road

LISBON — Dresden Ave. Ext., once known as Route 30, California Hollow and recently County Rd. 424, is now County Rd. 447.

The Columbiana County commissioners Monday reported the change in number designation by County Engineer John Ursu.

The section of highway between the city limits and Route 170 became an extension of County Rd. 424 — or the Y. & O. Rd. — when Routes 30 and 7 were transferred to the new freeway.

Referring to the section as County Rd. 424 was confusing to many motorists and others.

In other action yesterday, the commissioners endorsed an application for a beer license for Helen Kennedy of the Youngstown Rd., Madison Township, and returned the application to the Ohio Department of Liquor Control.

A travel allowance of $36 was approved for County Auditor Kenneth Bell to attend a legislative meeting of the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals Oct. 21 at Columbus.

Driver Hurt As Truck Strikes Embankment

A 22-year-old Oakmont man was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with back injuries suffered when his wrecker truck skidded and struck an embankment along the Y. & O. Rd. near Route 30 Monday afternoon.

William Reed of Oakmont, who began work yesterday for the Roberts Sunoco Service Station of Route 30, was thrown out of the truck by the impact.

Witnesses said his truck rounded the curve at the site, and came upon a slowing or halted school bus, and he apparently applied the brakes. The wrecker truck skidded about and hit the embankment.

Woman, 84, Set For College Rite

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Mary Alice Patterson wants a college degree. She's only a sophomore but she's 84 and mighty determined.

Some Arizona State University coeds study Arizona history. Mrs. Patterson helped make it. A pioneer resident of Arizona, she was official clerk-typist to the Arizona constitutional convention in 1910. Later, she served in the Arizona House of Representatives.

Laws which she sponsored provided pensions and retirement for public school teachers and set the referendum for women's suffrage.

In 1898 she attended the University of Utah but never got a degree. She taught school for 28 years. Now she's enrolled in the Col-

Extinct Fish Caught

ARVADA, Wyo. (AP) — A 6-year-old Arvada boy, Russell Dexter, surprised Wyoming game and fish commission fish biologists recently, by catching a 29-inch long shovelnose sturgeon in Clear Creek, a tributary of the Powder river. It was the first sturgeon caught in Wyoming since 1959. The fishery biologists had believed the species was extinct.

PTA And School Officials Lock Horns In Wellsville

A rift between members of the executive committee of the MacDonald Parent-Teacher Association and Supt. Lowell Myers and other school administrators was aired during a four-hour session of the Wellsville Board of Education Monday night.

A lengthy letter was received from the PTA committee claiming that the members had been called "unprofessional, unethical, illegal and undemocratic" by members of the executive committee of the Wellsville City Teachers Association. It also stated it had been treated "unfairly" by the superintendent.

The letter sent to the PTA group from the WCTA then was read, followed by a third letter, also from the WCTA.

THE TROUBLE, apparently developing for some time, came to light last Monday.

Myers and other school principals apparently planned to appear at a meeting of the MacDonald PTA to discuss the proposed $885,000 school bond issue.

Myers said he was refused permission to speak. The executive committee contends the program was for an "open house" session and that no time had been set aside for speakers.

In the letter, the executive committee, which since has resigned, pointed out that school officials had discussed the bond issue previously at a special meeting in September.

THE LETTER from the WCTA stated the action against allowing the principals and superintendent to speak was "unethical, illegal, and undemocratic." The letter, signed by George T. Lawton, president, said the executive committee of the WCTA would request that the MacDonald principal and teachers not attend any future PTA meetings.

The second letter from the WCTA said the membership of the organization agreed to have the teachers attend PTA meetings at MacDonald to work for the future of the children and urged that the organization assume a parent-teacher function instead of being a parent organization.

The PTA committee in general contended that the meeting was to have been an informal affair, as in years past, and that it always had worked for the interest of the teachers on other levies and issues.

The PTA communication was signed by Mrs. Agnes Glover, who was president. Her husband, Jack Glover, attended the meeting last night, but made no comments.

WILLIAM FERRALL, a board member, said he doesn't feel that any administrator has the right to walk into any room being used by a public organization and speak any time he feels like it, as suggested by the WCTA letter.

Myers commented that he had requested Lawton to call the executive committee meeting of the WCTA. Mrs. Margaret Lloyd, another board member, said she feels this was "poor taste."

Dr. Janis Lauva, board vice president, said the MacDonald PTA is against the school bond issue and some of the members are using this to ridicule us. He said when they felt they could not "fight this any other way, they decided to act big and not let us in. This is a personal low blow."

Myers, claiming various administrators and teachers were being made fun of in executive meetings, said, "I feel my action was right and just."

Ferrall commented, "This has reached ridiculous proportions." Mrs. Lloyd said it has damaged the teachers. Russell Dysert, board president, said he was not aware of the name calling, but that he was told there was no program planned for the open house.

Dysert said the "rank and file" members of the PTA believed the administrators were to have been given the opportunity to speak at another meeting.

Mrs. Lloyd also said "I don't like the idea of you (Myers) telling the teachers they were being criticized by the executive board of the PTA." Myers replied "It is very easy for you to sit there and criticize action taken by me in the best interest of the schools."

Mrs. Lloyd said she feels both sides are responsible for the friction created.

Daniel MacLean, a board member, asked what is to become of the PTA. Dysert said it probably will be at an end unless some interested person picks up the pieces and starts another.

Myers said the problem is one for "the entire community" to think about.

In closing, Dysert urged each member to forget the controversy and work for the betterment of the schools.

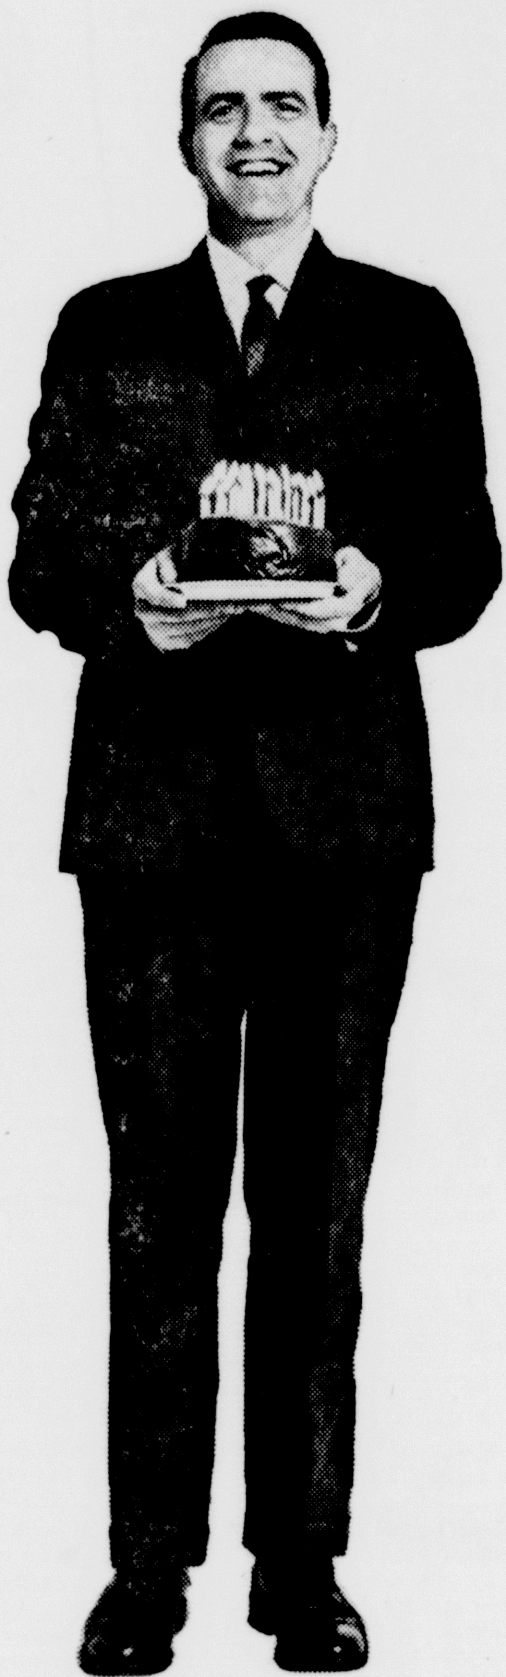

'Ham' Club Sets Advanced Course

Plans for an advanced electronics course were made at a meeting of the Triangle Amateur Radio Club Monday night at the Ohio Power Co. building.

The course will be presented Monday and Friday nights, with all licensed "ham" operators welcome to participate. Harry Aivalotis, president, said. The program is designed to aid "hams" in obtaining advanced class licenses.

Guests included Dewey McPherson and Douglas Reynolds.

The Best Place To Buy After All

Only one driver in five causes nearly all accidents.

By accepting safe drivers only, Nationwide can offer a car insurance plan with these valuable benefits:

1. Safe drivers over 25 pay only what they deserve. When you start the plan, your rates are figured on a sliding scale. The fewer accidents you've had, the lower your rates.

2. Lower rates for safe married drivers under 25 with children. Nationwide's records show that these young parents are more responsible drivers than bachelors or childless couples in the same age group. So Nationwide rewards them accordingly.

3. You pay less for second and third cars. Nationwide's multi-car discounts offer bigger savings than are possible with most other companies.

4. Your rates don't go up after an accident except if Nationwide pays $50 or more to another person.

5. You get drive-to-work advantages. Many other companies charge higher rates for people who drive more than 10 miles to work. Nationwide's new plan lets you drive up to 20 miles to work, at a lower rate.

6. Rates for safe drivers under 25 generally go down each year as the driver's age increases.

7. Driver-training discount. Drivers under 21 who complete a recognized driver-training course get a discount.

8. Special student discount. Resident students more than 100-miles from home get a discount because they only use the family car occasionally.

9. Farmers pay less. Nationwide's liberal farm discounts offer greater savings to farmers than those of most other companies.

10. Female drivers under 25 pay less. These young women have better driving records than men of their own age, so Nationwide charges them less.

Plus these extras:

Broader coverage than most companies offer, including extra accident and liability protection, at no extra cost.

Fast claims service—Nationwide pays over half of all claims within 24 hours after receiving proof of loss.

National Newspaper Week

National Newspaper Week, now in progress, is an awkward occasion for the working press because it sounds as if we were blowing our own horn.

Some of that is done, of course, but it's not the purpose of National Newspaper Week.

The purpose is to jog Americans into renewed realization year by year that their right to keep track of the news is beyond the clutch of government authority.

Legislators in the United States are barred from making laws that would abridge freedom of the press. Administrators, consequently, are barred from taking action that would abridge freedom of the press.

Readers and advertisers, on the other hand, can do anything they want to do. They cannot be compelled to do anything against their will, as far as newspapers are concerned.

They can even start their own papers if they feel like it. They can cancel and they can subscribe. They can tell newspapers what they think of them. They can knock, praise, approve and disapprove. It's a free country.

But if any politician or any agent of government authority lifts a finger to try to abridge freedom of the press, the free souls of America will blow the whistle and tie down the cord until all danger is over.

Newspapers as such run about the same percentage of good and bad as other institutions, both profit-making and non-profit making. They prosper and perish in about the same ratios as enterprise.

It is not newspapers themselves that are to be saved at any cost but the constitutional principle that they shall not be monkeyed with by government. A free press is guaranteed not to the newspapers that operate under the Constitution but to the people of the United States. It is their inviolable right.

They don't always think about it that way. They should think about it, though, especially during National Newspaper Week, when millions are encouraged to think about it at the same time by the upward of 1,800 daily newspapers, 8,000 weeklies and some 560 Sunday papers that serve them.

Keeping Busy

We are impressed with first-hand reports that former President Eisenhower is full of vigor and vitality as he reaches his 75th birthday.

This is the man who said when he was stepping down as chief of staff that he intended to sit in a rocking chair and rock slowly, after six months of sitting still.

He still isn't in a rocking chair. He puts in a full day and keeps upward of a dozen assistants busy. He has been blessed with enough to do to keep him from getting bored and with a position in public affairs that keeps him from being forgotten.

There is no great distinction any more in living to be 75 years old; it happens all the time. But there is distinction in avoiding the vegetative state that is the affliction of old age in a society that sidelines senior citizens whether they want to be sidelined or not.

Congratulations to Dwight Eisenhower for keeping busy, though old.

Anatomy Of The Presidency

When the necessity arises to get clinical about the current resident of the White House, a shudder shakes the national equanimity.

Is it safe to trust the presidency to a mortal put together no better than the rest of us and not as solidly as some of us?

Closeup views of the anatomy of former President Eisenhower and currently of President Johnson have made sensitive souls wince and swallow hard. They think of how little they would relish similar disclosures of aberrations in their interior construction. They think of human frailty in general.

After a presidential bout with weaknesses of the flesh, it takes months to restore confidence in a chief executive's ability to carry on as before. And it is made clear that confidence in the presidential anatomy is a sometime state of the mind, as easily shaken as the stock market's confidence in the economic anatomy of the Republic, itself.

The same kind of sneeze that would prompt lesser men to reach for a handkerchief stirs president watchers to reach for the panic button.

When President Johnson went to the hospital for his gall bladder operation, the world trembled. Vice President Humphrey looked grim. Praying people prayed, and hoping people tried to keep their minds off the possibilities.

Yet, in all of American history it has been proved that constitutional democracy can claim one unique distinction: it endows each new president with qualities of leadership that are intrinsic in the job, whether or not they are intrinsic in the man. The anatomy of the presidency is infinitely more rugged than the anatomy of the man who occupies the office.

On Nov. 22, 1963, John F. Kennedy was assassinated. Is it not remarkable that less than two years later Americans are imbued with the idea that Lyndon B. Johnson is the only president they ever had?

Is it too soon to forget that when Franklin Roosevelt died on April 12, 1945, an unobtrusive man named Harry Truman stepped into the presidency with no preparation and became one of the strong executives of his generation?

A Matter Of Peace Work

Michael Stewart, British foreign secretary, made a sound suggestion to the United Nations General Assembly last week.

If peace is worth keeping, it is worth working for, he explained. Therefore, the United Nations should have a full-time trouble-shooting group of top international experts working to keep international frictions from breaking into flame.

This is the same idea that has appealed to peacemakers in labor relations in the United States—that instead of waiting for strikes to happen both sides should support continuous efforts to avert head-on collisions that cause strikes.

Would it work?
One flaw is apparent.
It would not work in situations where one side, or the other, or both, wanted a collision at any cost.

Not Measurable In Money

By Truman Twill

No one who wields a typewriter commands more respect from me than Sylvia Porter, who writes about economics with deft authority.

I do wish though she had skipped a recent column on the rising cost of child rearing. I do not think the subject lends itself to economic discussion.

Parents do not think of it that way, and to try to squeeze so large a matter into a small mold of dollars and cents might throw young people off the track.

One statement in the column shows the fallacy in a cost-accounting view of child-rearing. "As incomes rise, the cost of rearing a child may be much higher," it says, after saying the Institute of Life Insurance finds the cost of rearing a child in an average family is $23,835.

That's without unusual medical expenses and a college education, which is like figuring the cost of an auto without wheels and engine. And, of course, it's the cost for a nonexistent "average family," meaning the real cost ranges from a Rockefeller kid to a kid on the wrong side of the tracks.

What does it cost to raise an offspring?
The going cost of obstetrical care was $150 and up for well-to-do families when the children in our family were born. Ours cost $40, in easy payments.

Variables start before birth and keep going, from beginning to end. Does a teenager have his own car and a substantial allowance? Or does he hoof it and spend what he is entitled to spend for services rendered?

It could make a difference of a couple thousand dollars in the cost of child-rearing.

Does the kid undergo one of those teeth-straightening ordeals that run on for a couple of years, with weekly visits to the dentist? That can cost a chunk.

Is the kid disposed to hustle his own where-withal, or is he too busy with more worthwhile things to find time for toil?

That's a variable factor.
It comes to mind in this connection that the boys in our family never had a vacation after they reached their teens. They had enough money in the bank when they started to college to pay for the first year, and they worked every summer and part time through the school year to help pay for the rest.

So what does it really cost to raise a child? What's the outlay for an average family? Who could know? Any arbitrary use of an average figure is deceiving and beside the point.

Raising a child is not an investment in money; that's the point.

It's an investment in life, like planting trees, or building a hospital. There is no way to measure it in dollars.

You do it and hope for the best. Please, Miss Porter, no more wasting of your talent on the rising cost of child rearing. Newlyweds might take you seriously.

Modern Paradise?

Maldiv Islanders dry fish for a living, fly kites for pleasure and practice witchcraft for whatever ails them.

The modern world has brushed only lightly against the sunny archipelago in the Indian Ocean — there are no police, no traffic, no telephones, no television.

The neat, well-kept streets of the capital, Male, are paved with white sand. The ruling Sultan walks to Moslem prayers every Friday. He is preceded by soldiers armed with shotguns — to shoot any offenders among the capital's noisy crows. But the cunning birds seem to keep quieter on Fridays.

Orchids grow everywhere and flowering creepers fling crimson and violet booms over every wall. Backyard gardens are filled with breadfruit trees, mangoes, papaw, coconut and bananas.

The Maldiv Islands, under British protection since 1887, became an independent state in 1965. The Islands form one of the world's few remaining sultanates. In the old days the Sultan, a ruler with absolute power, was titled "King of the Thirteen Provinces and Twelve Thousand Islands." Today he is elected, along with a prime minister and a parliament called the Majlis.

The Real World Series

The Headlines Shape Up For '68

By Victor Riesel

Apparently everybody except the "prisoners" have forgotten "the week that was" when the bantering, cajoling, persuasive Lyndon Johnson "incarcerated" the men of steel in a White House executive office suite.

Only the other day the Steel Union's chiefs reported to a district convention at New York, and this correspondent found himself in lonely vigil at an empty press table. But this trip was necessary.

Big news was made albeit wrapped in the rollicking Irish wit of United Steelworkers' Vice - President Joe Molony. His report spoke of the things to come in the future from the week that was.

Molony predicted that the million-member steel union will fight for what should be described as permanent unemployment insurance. No worker should ever be without income, asserted the mellifluous Molony.

HE DISCLOSED that the union will launch a legislative drive to make it a federal law that an unemployed worker shall be compensated by the state — for years if necessary — between jobs.

"A man should receive unemployment insurance," said Molony, "not for six months, not for a year, but until he's given another job. . . . It should be the work of the trade union movement to petition Congress to allow a man to receive a percentage of his wages when he is unemployed until he gets another job."

This, added Molony, is the solution to automation's problems. He announced that the Steel Union had a million members but feared losing some of them when newly automated mills open.

To offset layoffs, he called for a four-day, 32-hour week at 40 hours pay. This would mean a 20 per cent increase in wages and for the while it's "impractical."

But, he pledged, it will be won over the next few years. And though he spoke while steel industry contracts still are being drawn up (it will take until Christmas), he indicated the shape of things to come when next these pacts expire in '68.

THE ROARS OF LAUGHTER matched the roars of applause as he described the early hours of the week that was. The feuding negotiators had been shifted from lush, velveted and carpeted, leather - chaired White House quarters to rooms that were "dirty, unswept and with no air conditioning."

At one point Molony looked out the window.

There on the White House lawn was a huge hole (dug by some construction workers). Molony revealed that he called over Secretary-Treasurer Walter Burke and said "I think it's a mass grave. Maybe we ought to move a little faster."

But to the industrial executives it was no laughing matter. They fought for every mill of a cent because they reckoned that every additional penny an hour, added to the pay of the men in the mills, meant an additional $15 million a year.

For weeks now computers and cost accounting and tax experts have been working on the final cost of the steel pact made behind the firmly closed doors under the President's pressure.

THEIR ESTIMATES now come to at least a billion and a quarter dollars more in direct labor costs over the 35-month contract.

And these executives are moaning low over what some call "compact poker." This is a reference to the "wild card" in the deck.

No one now can predict just how many Steelworkers will pick up their option to retire at the new pension rates. The retirees could total 10,000 or 37,000. Any guess now would be a wild one — so the insiders call it the "wild card."

Thus, it all adds up to the biggest pot ever won by the Steel Union. And it was the new team of "Abe" Abel, Walter Burke and Joe Molony, with an assist from a mighty powerful "kibitzer," some of the steel industry executives say ruefully.

How does the union view it? Joe Molony's fervent words about the chief executive puts it clearly.

"I hear that some say the end of collective bargaining is coming when the President starts to interfere."

"LBJ HAS A RIGHT to interfere with union and industry affairs. This right is granted by Congress. The President could have been ruthless and unkind and could have invoked the Taft-Hartley (80-day injunction) if he wanted."

"Instead of using an injunction, he invited us to his home. And he gave us comfort, advice, aid and support. Because of him and his help, we were able to avoid a strike and win an agreement."

"The United Steelworkers owe LBJ a debt of thanks. We have a friend in the White House . . ."

Molony wound up by thanking the President. Thus was written the lead to one of the biggest stories of 1968.

lectivization program on the mostly disastrous methods used by Communist China. He was presumably put out of circulation because his program failed.

At the time, the Viet Cong appeared to be defeating the South Vietnamese forces. American power, with bombing in the north, had barely begun. Responsible voices in the West began asking whether it was possible to negotiate the fate of South Viet Nam.

GRADUALLY, U.S. power began to get results. The peripatetic Viet Cong political delegation, wandering around Africa and Eastern Europe, often evoked comradely sympathy but no material aid. It got so that the frustrated travellers occasionally burst into angry tirades at their East European hosts.

The Viet Cong delegates admitted in Moscow and Budapest, that the U.S. was causing infinitely more damage to Viet Cong strength and morale than anyone in North Viet Nam ever envisaged.

Gen. Giap was set up as a scapegoat and handed the blame for the stinging series of setbacks. Although Thanh, for example, was responsible for messing up the pastoral society and production of the north, his rival, Giap, is not the butt of party displeasure.

A highly skilled in-fighter, Giap may well be able to survive the move to smother him and his ambition to become top man, replacing ancient Ho.

RED CHINA wants Thanh to emerge on top. Where Thanh has been these last eight months is something of a mystery. Factional fights within the party that rules the north came to light far more frequently last summer than ever before. Wandering Viet Cong delegates have talked about their plight and the unwillingness of comradely Europeans to do anything except to cluck, sympathetically.

Letters To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

The officers of the ELHS Band and Orchestra Mothers organization wish to correct some misconceptions which have arisen since the report of the Board of Education meeting in The Review on Oct. 5.

It was stated that our organization pays half the cost of instruments purchased for the band's use. This statement is erroneous. In the past five years a number of band instruments have been purchased. With the exception of one instrument purchased by the board in 1962, all these instruments have been bought by the band mothers at the cost of approximately $6,000. Incidentally, the one instrument purchased by the board through a requisition made by the band director was secured through a city store.

THE BOARD of Education is not permitted by state law to provide uniforms for school groups and because of a local lack of funds is unable to provide other necessities. Among the items purchased through local dealers in the past six years are the following: All percussion instruments, including all outside drums and equipment for carriage, tympani, concert snare drums for indoors, baritone horn, over $5,000 in uniform replacements, (not including the initial purchase of the uniforms secured locally for $8000), parkas for outside wear, individual white shoes, summer uniforms, bus transportation, etc. All these items were purchased through city firms. Speaking in large figures, out of the $40,000 spent in the past few years under the current band director, $36,000 was spent in East Liverpool stores and businesses.

The method for instrument purchases by the band mothers is as follows: The band director sends a letter to all city stores and area stores explaining the type and quality of the instrument or instruments needed. These stores send back a bid (if they are interested in bidding). After all bids are reviewed, the instruments are purchased from the firm who can supply the best instruments together with the best service at the least possible cost. Students in the school system are never told that they must buy from any store or purchase only one brand instrument.

Incidentally, no purchases have been made from dealers in either Canton or Wooster, as was stated by one board member.

Therefore, contrary to remarks made at this meeting, we do contact and patronize local merchants. In the past two and a half years, our expenditures to local firms have amounted to $17,000. In addition, the vast majority of students purchase their own private instruments in our city. We are very appreciative of the support and encouragement given us by the merchants and citizens of the East Liverpool area. We value very highly their friendship and good will.

IN ORDER to raise funds, the band mothers conduct many projects during the year, all of which require considerable time and effort on the part of the band mothers. Band members also conduct various projects to help raise funds to pay for the items that the board is unable to furnish.

We also wish to answer criticism concerning a band member's appearance during the half-time show at the Steubenville Central - East Liverpool football game.

In this show, during one number, the percussion section was featured. Several drummers were placed in front of the band and the boys had deliberately combed their hair (under instructions from the director) in such a way that when they removed their hats their hair would fall around their faces, giving them a "Beatle" look. This was done to provide humor by satirizing a current teenage fad. The boy who was criticized is always well groomed and his appearance is always socially acceptable. This criticism was doubly damaging because it made the whole school look as though poor grooming was being allowed. This is also untrue.

The ELHS Twin Marching Bands, under the direction of Mr. Maola, have received nationwide praise and commendation through many sources, including national publications. Much favorable publicity to the city of East Liverpool has been brought about by the band.

We do believe that had Mr. Maola been contacted concerning these matters before public statements and criticism were made, much embarrassment to all concerned would have been avoided. Mr. Maola has always been most gracious in answering inquiries concerning the band's activities.

(The above is signed by Mrs. Irene Lessel, Mrs. Roberta Yonz, Mrs. Eileen Simson and Mrs. Evelyn Walker, officers of the Band and Orchestra Mothers.)

Injunction's Sought Over Isaly Picketing

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—An attorney for Isaly Dairy Co. is seeking an injunction to stop picketing of the company's plant here by members of the newly organized Ohio chapter of United Dairy Farmers. A hearing is set in common pleas court Wednesday.

Ten dairy farmers picketed the plant Monday, charging that they get only eight cents a quart for their milk and have not had an increase in 20 years.

Isaly paid 10.9 cents during August for milk which retails here for 19 cents a quart, a company spokesman said.

County Course Eyed In Farm Management

LISBON — The Columbiana County Technical Action Panel has requested the Salem office of the Ohio State Employment Service to consider conducting a training program in farm business management and analysis under the Manpower Development and Training Act.

To determine the extent of interest in such a program, the OSES asks any owner or operator of a county farm who would like to enroll in a training program to register at the Salem office at 130 Penn Ave.

The period reserved for registrations is the week of Oct. 18. Hours of registration are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Tickets Still Available For Wellsville Dinner

Some 150 tickets have been sold for the Wellsville Republican rally dinner Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church.

Officials said about 50 more can be accommodated. The speaker will be State Auditor Roger Cloud.

Housing Parley Attended By Wellsville Delegation

A Wellsville delegation was among those attending a meeting at Columbus today relative to the establishment of a Columbiana Metropolitan Housing Authority.

They are William Robinson and William Shoub, representing the Greater Wellsville Association, and Mayor William Daugherty.

The association selected its delegates at a meeting Monday night.

The Greater Wellsville group planned to present five letters to the Board of Housing favoring establishment of the authority. One letter was signed by all the city councilmen and Wayne Rose, clerk.

It states that the Council favors the action "because of the serious need for improved housing facilities for senior citizens and others in low-income brackets." It also points out the city stands to lose 250 homes when Route 7 is relocated.

The other letters were from Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 11, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the W. C. Bunting Co. and the association itself.

All cited the loss of homes within the corporation limits because of the proposed highway relocation and the need for low cost housing for the aged.

Arthur Montgomery, president, designated Robinson as his representative. Shoub was to represent industry.

The association also requested the two to obtain the necessary papers for having available industrial sites registered with the Ohio Department of Development at Columbus. Word was received from the department that none of the possible sites in Wellsville is on record. One of the sites to be registered is the 12-acre area owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Harold Sneddon of the Ohio Valley Gas Co. said he will provide the utility information for the listings.

Robinson and Shoub also are to check with the Community Improvement Corporation of Ohio to learn what funds are available for promoting industrial growth.

An inquiry was received from a lamp assembly plant on the possibility of locating in Wellsville.

The firm needs some 5,000 to 7,000 square feet of floor space and also asked what financial aid can be given for the relocation.

The firm is interested in locating in the area because of the availability of ceramic bases.

The group voted to establish a Greater Wellsville Association Park at 3rd St. and Riverside Ave. Shrubbery will be planted and a fence erected. Permission was received from the Pennsylvania Railroad to utilize a section of ground.

A preliminary zoning map showing tentative proposed regulations for the city and adjoining Liverpool Township was explained to the City Planning Commission Monday night at its monthly meeting in City Hall.

The map was exhibited by Daniel Ziegler II, a representative of the firm of Carroll V. Hill & Associates, which is preparing a "master plan" for future growth and development of the municipality and environs.

Ziegler explained a map showing proposed regulations on zoning in St. Clair Township still is in preparation. He emphasized that none of the proposals is in final form, pending further study.

THE PLANNING consultant's staff "will be continuously mulling these over" and the proposals also are subject to review by the planning commission's committee on land use and zoning, he added.

The color coded map showed land zoned for 14 different uses — in most cases duplicating the purposes for which the areas now are utilized principally. The classifications and their meanings are:

S-1, large public and semi-public areas such as school sites and cemeteries, as well as land which cannot be developed because of steep terrain; A-1, tracts now suitable for agriculture and possibly for use in later residential development; R-1, low density residential districts with the minimum lot size a half acre; R-2, residential areas with lots limited to minimums of 10,000 square feet—four houses per acre.

R-3, mobile home parks; R-4, an area of single family homes with lots set at a minimum of 7,500 square feet; B-1, neighborhood business areas; B-2, community shopping centers; B-3, institutions and offices; B-4, highway-related businesses.

B-5, central business district; M-1, restricted industrial area; M-2, limited industrial area, and M-3, general industrial areas.

PUBLIC HEARINGS will be required before any of the proposals are adopted officially, Ziegler explained. He said a series of district meetings might be set up in various areas of the city which are affected.

One of the next steps will be a study of the proposals by the land use and zoning committee, which is headed by Charles Sayre, Ziegler said.

Ziegler also reported the staff is "making good progress" on a housing report, the next phase of the study to be published. The housing report may be ready for presentation at the next meeting, he added.

Ziegler gave the commission a preliminary report on the findings in the housing survey, concentrating on the phase which classified each home according to its condition.

In the West End area, 23 per cent of the homes are satisfactory or need minor repair; 47 per cent major repair; 11 per cent are deteriorated but can be restored with major repair, and 18 per cent are beyond economical repair, he said.

In the general downtown area, 25 per cent of the homes are satisfactory or need minor repair; 39 per cent need major upgrading; 20 per cent can be saved with major repair and 14 per cent are beyond repair, he said.

IN EAST END, 45 per cent of the homes are satisfactory or need only minor repair; 40 per cent need major repair; 10 per cent are deteriorated but can be saved with extensive renovation and 6 per cent are beyond repair, he said.

In Pleasant Heights, 79 per cent of the homes are satisfactory or need minor repair; 10 per cent need major repair; 6 per cent can be saved with extensive renovation and 5 per cent are beyond repair.

In the St. Clair Ave. area, 56 per cent of the homes are satisfactory or need only minor repair; 34 per cent need major repairs; 6 per cent can be saved with extensive renovation and 4 per cent are beyond repair. Ziegler said the survey covered 2,751 homes in the general downtown area, 332 in West End, 1,747 in East End, 355 in Pleasant Heights, 215 in LaCrosse and 1,326 in the St. Clair Ave. area.

Most of the commission's 21-hour meeting was devoted to Ziegler's reports, although nearly an hour was devoted to routine business and appointment of a committee to study recommendations on transportation.

The committee will be comprised of George S. Bloomgren, H. A. Tullis, John R. Campbell, Al Gloeckner, Jim Baughman, Paul Zehnder, Lester Dailey, Robert Sylvies, H. J. English, Lloyd Gille, William Devonn, Tom Dixon, George Tucker, Dave Anderson and William Hocking.

IN ADDITION, it will include official representatives from the governments of East Liverpool, St. Clair, Liverpool, Madison and Yellow Creek townships, Wellsville, Midland, Chester, Hancock County and Columbiana County.

J. Clifford Conley, who assumed his duties last night as a new member, was named the commission's representative on the transportation committee. He was named yesterday by Mayor George E. Willshaw to replace William Rea, who was elected to a Council vacancy.

In addition to Willshaw and Conley, members of the commission who attended were Don Eckert, chairman, George Steele, Safety Service Director Robert E. Vodrey, John Parsons and James H. Grafton and Donald McGilivray, clerk.

The next meeting will be Monday, Nov. 8.

Trustees Named By Action Group

LISBON — Three new trustees of the Columbiana County Community Action Council—created to implement county projects under the federal Economic Opportunity Act—were named during a meeting Monday night at the village hall.

Mrs. Maxine Veon of East Palestine, Calvin Jackson of Wellsville and Mrs. Mabel Dickey of Lisbon were appointed trustees. Mrs. Genesta Vokovich of Lisbon was named treasurer, replacing J. F. Russell of Wellsville.

In line with a need to revise the council's application for federal funds to undertake a survey of county needs, the budget for the survey was increased from $12,850 to $14,010.

The funds would permit hiring a director, office staff and surveyors to determine the low income groups for which programs might be developed.

Fred Simmen of East Liverpool, president, was in charge.

Poster, Slogan Contest Will Push School Bond

Poster and slogan contests are being held in the Wellsville schools to help publicize the proposed $885,000 bond issue for construction of new buildings and additional classrooms.

The poster contest will be open to all students in the first through the eighth grade, while the slogan contest will be for those in the ninth through the 12th grade. Students of Immaculate Conception Parochial School also are eligible to participate.

The contests will end next Monday.

Mrs. Eileen Bush is chairman of the contest committee, which includes Mrs. George Lewis, Mrs. Richard Salsberry and Mrs. Paul Campbell.

Mrs. Bush said the winning posters and slogans will be displayed in store windows along Main St. the week of Oct. 25.

The prizes will be $3 in cash for the winner in each of the elementary grades and $5 for the winning slogan.

The students will be asked to draw a picture of their conception of the new building proposed in the downtown area or the new additions at Fairview or MacDonald Schools.

Parents may offer suggestions, but the drawings must be the students own work, the committee pointed out. The students will be supplied with paper and are asked to print their names on the back of each entry.

The slogan will be used in publicity for the bond issue and should be short and pertinent to education, Mrs. Bush said. An example is "Better Schools For Better Futures."

The judges will be Vincent Broomhall of East Liverpool, John Tuttle, art supervisor in the Wellsville Schools, and Fr. Gerald Curran of the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church.

Group Spurs Its Fight For Road Change

The South Beaver County Civic Association has called on the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to redesign the highway in the vicinity of Kennedy's Corners to eliminate what it terms a "triangular eyesore and traffic hazard."

A proposal to this effect has been submitted to J. P. Ambler, district engineer, it was disclosed by James Russell of Shippingport, association president.

The group has been fighting for eight years for the program. "We would suggest," says the proposal, "that changes in the highway leading from the new Shippingport Bridge to Route 18 at Kennedy's Corners, now in progress, offer an opportunity to redesign this intersection, and that this should be done if it has not already been done."

The association noted that more than eight years ago it called the attention of the Highway Department to a "hazardous condition" existing at this intersection and that at that time the department pointed out that the triangle in question was owned by the state and not, as has been asserted, privately.

"This hazard," said the association, "still exists. Accidents have occurred at this intersection. In one of these in the summer of 1963 three members of the Weller family of Mechanicsburg — the father, a son and a daughter — were killed."

Coed Discloses Futile Efforts To Save Friend

SOUTH DEERFIELD, Mass. (AP) — "I couldn't hold her," the stunned Smith College freshman sobbed, "I tried, but I couldn't hold her."

Ginny Scheer of Oklahoma City tugged at the grasping hand of her college friend, Karol Rae Hommon, the former Miss Alaska, who had slipped over the edge of Mt. Sugarloaf — but had just managed to grab hold of a sappling with one hand.

Ginny's efforts were in vain, however, and Karol plunged 200 feet to a rock ledge overlooking the Connecticut River.

Rescuers climbed a steep wooded slope to bring her down, administered artificial respiration to keep her alive, but she died at nearby Farren Memorial Hospital. Karol, 21, of Anchorage, Alaska, competed in the 1965 Miss America pageant.

Will Reds Increase It?

Pace Of Cong Terrorism In Saigon Being Debated

SAIGON (AP) — Many persons are debating whether the Viet Cong's elusive underground is preparing to increase its tempo of terrorism in Saigon, the nerve center of the Vietnamese war.

Both foreigners and Vietnamese see a possibility of augmented terrorist attacks as the mounting pressures of war, especially by the heavy U.S. air assaults, take a greater and greater toll of Communist manpower and materiel.

Many say that as the Viet Cong are pressed harder and harder from the air and sea and on the ground, there is a good chance they will strike back with more terrorism.

While this violence has been fitful and sporadic, it has never ceased since the beginning of the war. Now a new trend seems to be taking place.

Acts of terrorism recently seem to have been directed with greater frequency against police. More than a dozen grenade attacks have been made on the police in Saigon since July.

Court Eyes Plea Tied To Slaying Of Wanda Cook

CINCINNATI (AP) — Alice Ewing's appeal from a larceny-by-trick conviction stemming from the trunk slaying of Wanda Cook a year ago, was before the Ohio 1st District Court of Appeals today.

Miss Ewing, 24, of Ft. Thomas, Ky., was not in court for the brief hearing Monday.

She was convicted early this year of buying a suitcase with a credit card taken from the body of Miss Cook, the Bellevue, Ky., nurse who was slain in a Cincinnati hotel room.

Robert Abbott, 22, Dayton, Ky., Miss Ewing's boy friend, is serving a life term in Ohio Penitentiary after conviction on a first degree murder charge. Miss Ewing was convicted last May of helping Abbott ship Miss Cook's body to Cleveland in a trunk. She paid a $500 fine for that offense.

The formula for changing the reading of a Fahrenheit thermometer to centigrade is this—subtract 32 from the Fahrenheit reading and multiply this by five-ninths.

Plea Rejected To Free Girl On Murder Charges

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—A motion to free Dixie Lee Radcliff, 16, on murder charges failed Monday when Superior Court Judge J. Smith Gibbons rejected it.

Defense attorney William Egan contended the daughter of an Amesville, Ohio, minister should be freed because justice of the peace James Brierly dismissed the charge for lack of prosecution.

Gibbons said an indictment returned by a grand jury last week takes precedence over Brierly's decision.

Dixie and her boy friend, Donald Boggs, 23, of Londonderry, Ohio, were each charged with murder in the slaying of two New Hampshire men.

Fitness Class Enrolls Three New Members

Three new members were enrolled at the meeting of the Glenmoor Women's Physical Fitness Class Monday night at the former Lee's Market building. Twenty attended.

PTA Congress' Pamphlet Blasts 'Smear' Attacks

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The National Congress of Parents and Teachers has countered what it considers right-wing "smear" attacks against it with a pamphlet calling extremist groups of both left and right "a clear and present danger to democracy."

Mrs. Jennelle Moorhead of Eugene, Ore., told about 2,500 delegates to the convention of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers here Monday that the new pamphlet outlines ways for local PTA groups to combat subversive attacks.

She said the PTA was attacked in anonymous, recorded telephone messages in about 40 cities around the country. These are similar to recorded messages—reached by dialing a publicized telephone number—which have attacked other individuals and organizations in various cities, she added.

She said the messages charge that the PTA is working "with federal bureaucrats to federalize the schools in a Russian manner."

A prime topic up for discussion in the convention, which runs through Wednesday, is the proposal to increase Ohio's sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent to raise an additional $116 million a year for public education.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: We are trying to raise our son to be an honest, law-abiding citizen, but we're not getting much help from the outside. Here is an example of what I mean:

Last week I found a hotel ash tray in our son's room. (Hal is 15.) I asked him where he got it and he said, "I took it. I'm collecting souvenirs." I told him it wasn't right to appropriate hotel property—no matter what he called it. I then wrote a letter to the hotel manager describing the ash tray. I explained Hal had taken it, and asked how much he owed.

The reply from the hotel manager read: "Your boy doesn't owe us anything. We want people to take our ash trays. It is good advertising."

This letter has made me a laughing stock at home and set my "integrity and honesty program" back 10 years.

I realize things have changed since you and I were 15 but have they changed so much that people are expected to steal? Your opinion is wanted—and needed.—MDJ.

Dear MDJ: Several weeks ago I published a letter from a woman who complained because a relative stole ash trays, sugar bowls, linen—whatever she could get her hands on—from hotels and motels all over the country. I finished in Early Holiday Inn. She asked my opinion. I said,

It is dishonest and indefensible."

I received several letters describing me as naive and foolish. I was told that people are expected to walk off with items bearing the name of the establishment (I got this word from outfits that manufacture the gadgets).

Shocked? You bet. But I'm not budging. If it's foolish to oppose stealing then I'm a fool, but I stand four-square behind my original advice.

Foot In Mouth

Dear Ann: I have just read this letter and it sounds like petty high school stuff, but it is far more serious. I can't express myself clearly in writing, Ann, but I do need help. I'm a married woman with a family. A close friend of mine (I'll call her Daisy) repeated some dreadful things about a mutual friend whom I will call June. I telephoned June and told her I wanted nothing to do with her because of the things I had heard. (I did not name my source.)

Last week I ran into Daisy and June, who were having lunch together. They appeared to be thick as thieves. That evening I phoned Daisy and asked for an explanation. She said, "I found out the stories I had heard about June are untrue. She's really a nice person."

What should I do now? —THIRD LEG.

Dear Third: Now you can kick yourself with that third leg for condemning the girl on the basis of vicious gossip. Apologize to June and hope time will heal the rift.

P.S.: Who said Daisies don't tell?

Two Of A Kind

Dear Ann: Please answer this in your column. It might open a few eyes and shut a few mouths.

A friend of mine has a teenage daughter. They fight like cats and dogs. The poor girl can't do anything right. Her mother continually is finding fault with her friends, her hair, her walk and the way she talks.

The thing that floors me is this: The daughter is a carbon copy of her mother, not only in looks but in actions. The mother must see it. So why is she so hostile to the girl? —KWESTIONER

Dear K: The faults parents find most difficult to tolerate in their children are the ones they have themselves. I feel sorry for the girl. Living with a hypercritical, fault-finding mother is like being nibbled to death by a duck.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Raccoon Causes Canine To Raise Cain In LaCroft

That was no bobcat — that was a coon!

The howling and barking of a large police dog near 6th St. and LaCroft Ave. in LaCroft early today aroused neighbors, who realized the dog had some large animal cornered between a box and fence at the home of Mrs. Jack Reed. Many suspected a bobcat.

Homer Cronin, assistant fire chief, was summoned about 3:30 a. m., and with the aid of a strong light, he was able to make out the form of a large raccoon.

Cronin said the coon was apparently a pet, for after he freed it, it attempted to get in his car. He released the animal in a field.

County Slides To Be Sought For State Use

In response to a request from Ohio officials seeking colored slides of Columbiana County, a contest will be held in conjunction with October Festival Days Oct. 28-30.

Don Eckert of the Camera Mart said colored slide scenes of the county will be judged and a 35-millimeter "electric eye" camera awarded the winner.

All entries will be the property of the state of Ohio, he said. Slide entries may be left at the Camera Mart or at the Camera Club Booth at the festival days downtown area.

Eckert said Gov. James Rhodes on a visit here two years ago mentioned the need for colored slides of the county for use in state promotion and development material and the state magazines.

Recently, a state aide requested additional slides, Eckert said. Consequently, the "Governor's Requested Colored Slide Contest" has been proposed.

Anyone from Ohio, West Virginia or Pennsylvania districts may submit entries, but the photographs must be of Columbiana County.

Midland's Board Takes Action On School Physician

The Midland Board of Education ratified the appointment of Dr. Leon D. Goggin as the school physician for the remainder of the school year at its meeting Monday night. The appointment became effective Oct. 1 and will continue through June 1.

Permission was granted for board members so desiring to attend the annual convention of Pennsylvania School Boards Association in Philadelphia Oct. 20 to 23.

THE BOARD granted permission to American Legion Post 481 to have the Midland High School Band participate in a Halloween parade Oct. 30 at Midland.

The Catholic Youth Organization was granted use of the old high school gym for basketball games, providing school policies are met and the games don't interfere with school activities.

Three bids were examined for the purchase of coal. They were from the John Radella Trucking of Midland, $8.25 per ton; George Studen Co. of Midland, $8.75 and $7.75 per ton, and Sam Cutrano Coal and Trucking of Rochester, $9.50 per ton. The bids were turned over to the property committee for study.

IN OTHER business, general bills amounting to $29,342 were approved for payment, cash receipts totaling $1,194 were placed in the proper accounts, a treasurer's report of $345,962 was accepted and filed and the tax collector reported funds of $467,653 were on deposit.

The board approved the purchase of a library book list at the cost of $338.

Realignment of football classification was discussed and referred to the athletic commission for suggestions. Midland

High School is eligible for participation in Class B participation, but the school officials want to consider the action of other schools on the football schedule before making a decision. Dropping from Class A to Class B could force schedule complications and the board members have indicated they wish to maintain the current football slate if possible.

The deadline for such realignment is Oct. 31.

PLANS FOR relocation of the Biology Department of the high school were studied and turned over to the property and education committee for further study. Three blueprints presented to the board call for possible expansion programs costing from $40,000 to $70,000. The project would be impossible to undertake this year, members explained, but said they will investigate the feasibility of adding the relocation to next year's budget.

Plans were made to attend the Beaver County school directors' convention at Hopewell - Independence - Racoon Senior High School Wednesday and Thursday.

The convention will open Wednesday at 6:30 p. m., with Dr. Paul N. Elbin, president of West Liberty State College, discussing the "Education I Wish I Might Have Had."

Thursday's program, starting at 7:30 p. m., will feature Phillip Geary, an accredited United Nations correspondent, who will speak on "America's Destiny in Asia."

Sectional meetings will follow each of the lectures, with the directors discussing transportation problems, establishment of new districts, vocational-technical schools and the Elementary-Secondary Education Act of 1965.

5 Win Passing Grades

Heights Man Places First For City Health Inspector

Kenneth L. Ibbs, 37, of 1226 Cora St., Pleasant Heights, scored the highest grade in a field of five who passed an examination given Monday night by the Civil Service Commission to draw up an eligibility list for appointment of a new Health Department sanitary inspector.

Ibbs, a former insurance agent and adjuster and later a construction worker, now works at Waterford Park race track and drives a school bus for the Snyder Bus Co. Married and the father of a son and a daughter, he served in the Army in 1946-47.

The appointment will be made by the Health Board, filling a vacancy created by the death of Gene Smith in August. The post pays $410 monthly, plus $75 for car expense.

After the successful applicants have taken physical examinations, the names of the top three will be certified to the Health Board, possibly in time for its next meeting on Oct. 21.

The No. 2 spot went to S. James Welch, 1008 St. John St., a former city councilman. The No. 3 spot is held by Benjamin Paul Weber, 914 Alton St., whose name was interpolated into the list under state law as a result of a prior exam.

Others who passed the test last night, listed in the order of their grades, are: Samuel E. Hayes, 1790 Pennsylvania Ave., a city patrolman; John A. Pickering, 816 Orchard Grove Ave., and Robert E. Taylor, 1043 Oak St.

Eleven had applied for the examination, but only 10 appeared to compete.

The commission has scheduled three additional examinations in the near future.

A test for city truck drivers' jobs is slated next Monday night. Three applications were filed before the deadline Saturday. They will be screened by the commission Wednesday.

Saturday is the deadline for an examination for "Meter Maid" jobs, which will be held on Oct. 21.

A test is slated Nov. 1 for the post of clerk - stenographer in the income tax office. The deadline for applications is Oct. 23.

A U.S. Air Force A1E Sky-raider was shot down 240 miles northeast of Saigon in Phu Yen while supporting a ground action. An Army helicopter rescued the pilot.

There were these other developments in the war:

Radio Hanoi, noting the increase in U.S. forces in Viet Nam to more than 140,000, said: "The U.S. aggressors are deliberately sinking deeper into the bog of their aggressive war."

In Tokyo, Gen. J. P. McConnell, U.S. Air Force chief of staff, told newsmen the B52 jet bombers which are pounding targets in South Viet Nam are not needed against North Viet Nam because the United States does not want to destroy the countryside there.

In Da Nang, South Viet Nam, the commander of U.S. Marines in the Pacific reported "progress in winning the hearts of the Vietnamese" through such civic action projects in the Da Nang area as road building and protecting the rice harvest.

Lt. Gen. Victor H. Krulak told newsmen the Marines there had done "almost unbelievable" things in harrying the Viet Cong and keeping them off balance.

Radio Hanoi announced North Vietnamese plans to send "large numbers" of volunteer troops to fight in South Viet Nam. The force is to consist of former troops and workers who left the South after the division of French Indochina in 1954, the broadcast said. Similar plans have been announced before.

Moyers continued to call Johnson's recovery right on schedule, but he still offered no forecast on when Johnson will be out of the hospital.

He said the President had some tapioca and soft boiled eggs during the day, although intravenous feeding still continued.

The second and last tube was removed from the area where the gall bladder used to be, Moyers said, and during the day Johnson for the first time took a few steps without assistance.

Rusk told reporters at Bethesda Naval Hospital that Johnson seemed fit and in good spirits.

"I was delighted to see him looking so well and obviously on top of what's going on," Rusk said.

He said he brought a goodwill message, expressing best wishes for the President's recovery, from Russia's top trio of officials — Anastas I. Mikoyan, Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin. It came through the Soviet Embassy.

Act Against Drunks, Drag Racers, Junk Heaps

States Use More Officers To Curb Traffic Mishaps

CHICAGO (AP) — Many states are sending reinforcements — more highway patrolmen — into the battle against traffic accidents.

An Associated Press survey also showed today that recent sessions of legislatures acted against drunken drivers, drag racers and junk heaps — and, in one capital, started a move to design a maximum safety car.

The increase of police forces took place against this statistical background: Motor vehicle deaths hit a record 47,700 last year, and seven out of 10 of them occurred in rural areas.

California lawmakers decided to double the size of the highway patrol to 5,200 officers.

Legislatures authorized an additional 200 state troopers in Michigan, 150 in Washington State, 100 in Iowa, Tennessee and Connecticut, 145 in Missouri and 50 in Kansas, Ohio and Wisconsin.

State police are seeking 400 more men in Kentucky on grounds that the present force is spread too thin.

Iowa's governor was empowered to declare a state of emergency on the road network during critical periods — such as holiday weekends — and to use state employees to help the patrol.

Some of the laws were aimed at the two-wheel set.

The Nevada Motor Vehicles Department requires all motor scooter drivers in the Reno and Las Vegas area to pass written and driving tests.

New motorcycle riders now must pass driving tests and obtain special licenses in New York. Scooter operators and motorcyclists must take examinations and get special licenses in Oregon.

Motor bikes of five horsepower or lower are barred from Ohio's freeways.

Colorado raised the minimum age for operators of motor scooters from 14 and 15 to 16, the same as for automobiles.

Wyoming boosted the minimum driving age for cars from 15 to 16 and for power cycles from 14 to 15.

Illinois prohibited motorists under 18 from driving after curfew — midnight on Friday and Saturday, 11 p.m. on other nights.

Iowa made racing on public roads punishable by a fine of $100 and 30 days in jail.

Nebraska banned drag racing on public roads. Maryland and Illinois enacted similar laws. Michigan did so earlier.

The New York Legislature appropriated $100,000 for a study to determine whether the state should develop a model passenger car designed to provide maximum safety.

Sponsors of the bill said that, if the state should decide to go ahead with the project, other states and the federal government would help.

Michigan's Legislature established a new charge: "Careless driving." It is a lesser offense than reckless driving but not so difficult to prove.

A new law in New Jersey was devised to curb high-speed chases. It prescribes a "disorderly persons" charge for a driver who flees after police have given him a signal to stop. The maximum penalty is a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Under a new Missouri law, the fact that a motorist is using a state highway is considered implied consent to a chemical test of his sobriety if he is ordered to take one by a law enforcement officer. If he refuses the test, the state can take away his driver's license for a year.

A new Oregon law will permit policemen to require breath tests for drunken driving after Jan. 1.

Florida made it an offense to drive under the influence of narcotics, nerve stimulants or barbiturates as well as liquor.

A Nevada statute forbids operation of any kind of motor

3 Teen-Agers Try To Buy Car With Counterfeit Money

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Three teen-agers—boys aged 15 and 19 and a girl aged 17—were held in Ross County today following an attempt to purchase a car with counterfeit money.

The girl and the younger boy were held for investigation of a charge of possession of counterfeit money. Deputies said $1,080 in phony $20 bills was found on the pair, most of it in the girl's purse stuffed so full money spilled out when she opened it.

The 19-year-old was held for municipal court authorities on investigation of larceny by trick.

Treasury agents said seven phony $20 bills and one $10 bill were passed at nearby Greenfield in an attempt to buy a 1958 model car.

Ben Parker, the car dealer, and his wife thought the currency didn't look right and took

Republic Steel To Shut Down Plant At Canton

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A decision by Republic Steel Corp. to quit manufacturing its kitchen line of cabinets and other related products here will result in the loss of 100 jobs Jan. 1.

The decision was revealed Monday by a company spokesman, who said the Berger Plant No. 2 closing here will cause employees to accept early retirement, severance pay, seek other jobs or join a preferential hiring list for possible jobs in other area Republic plants.

It also was announced that a total of about 375 employees in Republic's plants at Massillon will be laid off this week and at the end of the month because of a cutback in orders.

The spokesman said the cutbacks will result in layoffs for less than 10 per cent of the more than 4,000 Republic employees at Massillon.

Driver Hurt In Collision

A Lisbon woman received bruises in one of three district highway mishaps Monday, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Hazel Conn, 50, of 567 E. Washington St., Lisbon, suffered bruises of the eye and knee when her 1959 coach was struck from the rear by another car on Route 9 about two miles north of New Garden at 2:50 p. m. yesterday. Involved in the accident was a sedan driven by Gene Walter Metzgar, 19, of Salem R.D. 2, who was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Harry H. Woolmaker, 25, of 5th Ave. was cited on a similar charge yesterday afternoon after his car slammed into the rear of another on the Y. & O. Rd., a half-mile south of Glenmoor.

Woolmaker's 1962 coach hit the rear of a 1958 coach operated by Irene B. Weaver, 66, of Lisbon R.D. 3, who had halted for a stopped school bus which was discharging pupils. No one was injured, officers said.

Jerry Rambo, 18, of R. D. 3 escaped injury when he swerved his car to avoid a crash on Route 267, a mile north of the city yesterday afternoon, and his 1962 coach struck a speed limit sign.

Officers said a car operated by Monda J. Wilcox, 28, of the Y. & O. Rd. was backing out of a private drive and Rambo drove off the right side, avoiding a collision.

Dr. & Mrs. John C. Bauer, Fostoria, Ohio
"Electric heating was too costly and we didn't have enough hot water. Even with addition of a 2,000 sq. ft., covered swimming pool, our monthly gas bill has come no where near the previous electric bills."

Mr. & Mrs. Rogers T. Shock, Fostoria, Ohio

Mr. & Mrs. Arthur R. Wolfarth, Fostoria, Ohio
"Electric heat proved far too expensive. We had icicles in our unheated garage ... not enough hot water. Since converting, we have saved enough in operating costs to pay for our gas heating system."

Hoffa Aides To Look Into Disputed Vote

CLEVELAND (AP) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa will send a committee of three union executives here next week to conduct a hearing into the disputed election of Local 73.

Hoffa sent a telegram Monday to dissident leaders of the local, who are contesting an election last May 26, informing them the hearing will be held Oct. 21.

The telegram was sent to Walter Bryant, Richard Cunningham, James McGarry, Dennis Taylor, Norman Bodner and Michael Syez.

Bryant defeated Local 73 president John J. Felice, McGarry was elected as vice president, Cunningham as secretary-treasurer over N. Louis Triscaro, while Taylor was elected a trustee and Bodner recording secretary. Syez was an observer at the election.

The newly elected officers, however, said they were forced to resign under pressure and later decided to try and regain their offices.

They appealed to Hoffa after executive boards of Local 73 and Teamsters Joint Council 48 here rejected their protests. Bryant and Cunningham also filed protests with the U. S. Labor Department, which is now investigating the complaints.

Triscaro said "I have no comment until I get a telegram from Hoffa."

Robert Kopec, former vice president and a spokesman for the dissident group, said "We are pleased that Hoffa sees enough evidence to warrant a hearing to get the facts."

Lausche Blocks Action On Bill Involving Alaska

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, has blocked action on a bill to authorize federal participation in the 1967 celebration of the centennial of the purchase of Alaska.

Lausche's temporary block came during a hearing Monday in a senate commerce subcommittee when he sought and received postponement of a vote so that he and Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., could prepare testimony against the proposal.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., the subcommittee chairman, set completion of the hearing for Wednesday.

Lausche said he would drop his opposition to the Alaska bill if it was amended to require the Commerce Department to establish criteria restricting federal assistance to unique observances of national significance.

Lausche lashed out at what he called "the merry-go-round" of federal spending on fairs, exhibitions and observances.

Here's Why The Owners of These 6 Ohio Homes Switched from Electric to GAS Heating!

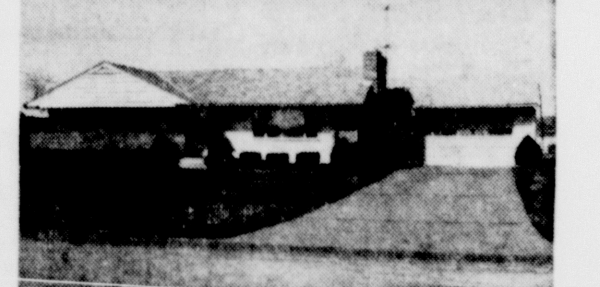

Comfort . . . economy . . . cleanliness . . . these are only three of the big reasons homeowners with electric heating are switching to gas. After all, electric heat costs over two and a half times as much as gas. Add to this the fact that gas heat provides constantly-changing, fresh, filtered air and you will see why thrifty gas heat is the choice of 93% of our customers. (It's chosen for 99%* of the new homes being built today.)

The families shown here are only a few of those which have switched from electric to gas heat. Just give us a call and we'll be glad to tell you about the others, too.

Mr. & Mrs. Harold R. Stone, Columbus, Ohio
"Electric heating and water heating were much too expensive; in fact, twice as costly as we had been led to believe. In switching to Gas, we saved enough to pay for the cost of conversion in one and one-half heating seasons."

Mr. & Mrs. A. L. Spillman, Newark, Ohio
"Electric heat, in addition to costing us well over $200 more per year than Gas, also produced many undesirable side effects: sweaty windows and walls, plaster cracks, basement too cold to be used, stagnant air."

Out Of The Air

By RICHARD DOAN
First Program Cuts

Richard Doan

The TV networks, not even waiting for the first so-called definitive Nielsen report on the new prime-time season, already are laying about with the program cancellation ax. CBS is dumping "Rawhide" as well as "Slatery's People," "The Loner" also may get an early pink slip. NBC is expected to scuttle "Convoy" as soon as the network can get out of its commitment on the new series.

All of the canceled or threatened shows registered weakly in the early ratings returns.

A highly placed network official who preferred to remain anonymous is predicted that "big chess moves" are in the offing, meaning by this that the networks will strategically reshuffle their lineups as early as possible to try to improve their competitive positions.

"It's going to be a whole new ball game, maybe as early as around Christmas," he claimed.

ABC, so far has disclosed no schedule changes. That there will be some is inevitable. The changes will not be revealed, however, for another two to three weeks.

IN ADDITION to unloading "Rawhide," now in its seventh season, and "Slatery's People," just beginning its second, CBS reportedly is considering a Saturday night shuffle which would transpose "Gunsmoke" and "Trials of O'Brien," bringing the old-time Western on at an earlier hour because it's family entertainment and slotting Peter Falk's drama at 10 p.m. because of its basically adult appeal.

According to another unconfirmed report, "Rawhide" might be halved from an hour to 30 minutes weekly and installed on Saturday nights in place of Lloyd Bridges' new "Loner."

In the "Rawhide" time, Tuesdays at 7:30, on Jan. 11 CBS will introduce "Clarence the Cross-Eyed Lion," a new animal story series to be turned out by Ivan Tors, who produces "Flipper" for NBC.

CBS, it was learned, ordered up an initial episode of the new series about a month ago in anticipation of need for a new early evening series.

The network has had two other shows, the British "Secret Agent" and an Art Linkletter "Talent Scouts" - type show, in the wings for late evening. The Linkletter entry has been called up to supplant "Slatery" in early December.

The CBS lineup shifts reflect a determination by network president Jack Schneider and his program boss, Mike Dann, to move quickly to repair ratings trouble spots.

Last season when ratings disaster hit CBS, the then president Jim Aubrey waited until mid-December to overhaul the schedule.

UNLIKE last year, when there were a dozen glaring weak spots in the lineup (i.e., "Mr. Broadway," "The Reporter," "The Entertainers," etc.) CBS is seen now, however, as having a patch job to do only in three or four critical areas.

NBC sources insist no decision has been made to drop "Convoy," but admit it is in ratings trouble. The World War II sea adventure hour, seen Friday nights, could be shifted to a new time in an effort to salvage it.

NBC's whole Friday night lineup except for "Man From U.N.C.L.E.," in fact, faces a probable shakeup.

A series made in England, "Court Martial," starring Peter Graves and Bradford Dillman, is one candidate for midseason introduction on NBC.

The first national Nielsen report on the new season will be out next Monday. In past years the networks have tended to postpone cancellation decisions until November, even December, on the theory that viewers' preferences were not firmly fixed until that time.

LOLA ALBRIGHT will pinch hit for the ailing Dorothy Malone as Constance Mackenzie on ABC's "Peyton Place" for a few weeks.

Miss Albright said it was her "earnest hope that audiences will accept" her as Constance Mackenzie.

She went to work in the role last Tuesday at 20th Century-Fox in Hollywood, but will not be seen in the serial drama until Dec. 10 because there are 30-odd episodes filmed ahead.

Miss Malone, who underwent a critical blood clot operation, still is appearing on the home screen.

Disadvantaged Need Language Help

In several columns recently I have pointed out that, in the program for educating disadvantaged preschool children, special emphasis should be placed on stimulating and guiding them in language development, in helping them to choose to talk more and to have more Dr. Garry Myers to talk about. To this end I have urged that these children at school be read often to in small groups. Parents could easily be enlisted as volunteers to help in this direction.

We might guess that leaders of these preschool groups will put their emphasis on helping the children to have enriched experiences so as to have more to talk about.

THIS GUESS seems correct from the impressions I have gained from a number of preschool groups as a part of the Head-Start Program last summer.

The young children are taken to the zoo, museum, airport and all sorts of other places. This seems to be a wholesome practice, as the children on these trips and after returning from them naturally must have an added urge to talk to one another and the teacher.

In addition, these children should hear stories read to them in small groups of two, three or four children.

In what other way might they be exposed so well to good patterns of speech? My guess is that the activity programs so absorb the teacher's interest that she will neglect an adequate amount of reading to these children; that, moreover, their mothers and fathers will not get sufficient urge for reading to their children at home.

THERE'S no clear proof that the group of disadvantaged preschool children are generally lower than average children in native mental ability, though many of them may, for lack of opportunity, seem to be mentally retarded. In any event they are retarded in language development, in speech.

Certainly young or older children, known to be retarded, lag in speech facility. They also need to be exposed to good patterns of speech.

Recently I pointed out that school-age children who are mentally retarded seem rarely to be read to at home or school. I entreated parents of these children and teachers of them in special classes to read often to them from materials these children will respond to.

I said that the teacher of a special class of mentally retarded school children not only might do much for these children directly but also indirectly by inducing their parents to read to them at home. But as the teacher of these children has been able to stimulate them in making things with their hands, they may tend to overlook the enrichment of speech by reading to them.

DURING the many years I have been writing this column, I have been urging all parents to read to their children, to begin when they are only two years old or younger and keep on reading indefinitely.

About half a million parents have written for and received my special bulletin, "Why Read to Baby and Young Child." It may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review. The reasons it gives apply also to reading to the mentally retarded person of any age.

Savings League Sold No Need For Sales Tax Boost

CLEVELAND (AP) — State Auditor Roger Cloud and three leading Ohio legislators have told the Ohio Savings and Loan League that there is no need for an increase in the state sales tax.

Opposition to Issue No. 1 on the Nov. 2 ballot, a proposal to increase the sales tax rate from 3 per cent to 4 per cent, was expressed Monday by Cloud; Frank W. King, Senate Democratic Leader; A. G. Lancione, House Democratic Leader, and Theodore M. Gray, Senate Majority Leader. They participated in a panel discussion at the league's 77th annual convention.

Rep. Lancione said the present tax rate is sufficient to take care of the state's needs.

Sen. King said the tax increase would produce more money than is needed and Sen. Gray said simply that he thought the tax proposal should be defeated.

Cloud said "It was not proper for the legislature to impose the tax increase." Denying that Ohio is "bonded to the hilt," he emphasized that "bonding has been solely for capital improvement of the state." He said this practice would pay off with future economic opportunities.

Distinguished Service Citation Goes To Dog

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A South African police tracker dog which followed a two-day-old trail for five miles through dense bush has been awarded a distinguished service medal by the Commissioner of Police.

Natie, a cross between a Doberman Pinscher, a Bloodhound and a Rotweiler, led his handler to a 3-year-old African girl who had wandered away from her home in northern Zululand.

When found the child was unable to speak because of exposure and exhaustion. She was rushed to hospital where she made a complete recovery.

Natie, who has been named champion police dog for 1964-65, has solved 10 out of the 12 cases in which he has been used.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Your suggestion of buying wallpaper for shelf lining was as good as the day somebody invented rest!

When I asked to see the broken - rolls table, I found it so cheap that I bought enough to line all my shelves, linen closets, and dresser drawers.

It's wider and thicker than regular shelf paper, and comes in different widths, which makes it wonderful for lining those deep linen closets and dresser drawers, since it only requires one width instead of the usual two of shelf paper for this purpose.

My shelves, dresser drawers, etc., are just wonderful now. May the good Lord see fit to let you live for ages to come.

MINNIE SNYDER.

squeeze out the required amount of juice.

The rest of the lemon will keep fresh until it is needed.

BREEDA.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is another use for nylon net:

My husband had an accident and his arm is in a cast. There are professional slings which can be bought, but they are not as nice in appearance as the nylon net sling I made for him.

One yard will make two slings, so one is a spare.

As the net comes in 72 inch width, I just cut it in half, (making two squares), then fold it once into a triangle.

The net can be bought in colors to match the upper garment. (Example: Navy for good suits. White for sport shirts etc.)

Once tied, it will not loosen from position. A musician's strap can be used for cushioning along the back of the neck if necessary.

This may not be the most useful every day hint to pass on to the readers but accidents do happen!!

MRS. IRA GOLDSTEIN.

And, think of all the nylon net scrubbers you can make when he is finished with the slings!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Did you know that candle stubs, when melted down to fit, can be used as emergency corks for bottles?

Racial Bias Charges, School Bus Issue Spotlight Meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two highly-controversial matters — a charge of racial discrimination in hiring practices and a statewide school bus purchase plan—held the spotlight at Monday's State Board of Education meeting.

Board members denied the discrimination charges made last month by a member, Chester K. Gillespie, Cleveland Negro attorney, and unanimously passed a school bus purchase plan which had been before the board for more than two years.

Board President Francis Spier of Akron said he is sure that State Supt. of Public Instruction E. E. Holt "can completely exonerate himself" of Gillespie's allegations in an investigation launched today by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Gillespie, who triggered the investigation, based his charge on the federal requirement that states which wish to receive federal funds for elementary and secondary education must certify that no discriminatory practices are used either in employment or in distribution of money. A HEW spokesman emphasized, however, that Ohio so far has complied with this requirement of the Civil Rights act of 1964 and there is no danger of funds being withheld.

The school bus plan, offered by member Wayne Shaffer of Bryan, was passed unanimously by the 23-member board.

The new proposal, said Shaffer, would permit school districts to join voluntarily for one year in participating in the purchase plan. Based on the number of school buses of each type to be purchased by the member districts, each major bus manufacturer could offer a bid. The level of state participation in helping school districts buy

8,779 Voters Qualified To Cast Ballots Here

East Liverpool has 8,779 voters qualified to cast ballots at the Nov. 2 general election, the County Election Board said today after posting a register of voters in each of the city's 34 precincts.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, pointed out the city has gained 308 voters since the 1964 year-end check of registration lists when the county was 8,471. In the year-end check, 638 were removed from the registration list for failing to vote within the last two years and the names of 12 persons who died also were removed.

Although 308 were registered from Jan. 1 to the Sept. 22 deadline for the general election, the number of qualified voters is down 342 from the 9,121 who were eligible to cast ballots in the city in the 1964 presidential election.

The board posted the alphabetical list of voters at each polling place on Monday, 10 days before the Oct. 21 date set by the state law, O'Hanlon pointed out. The board was aided by four students from the Ohio Valley Business College, who prepared the stencils and mimeographed the lists.

Although the registration deadline was Sept. 22, the additional time was required for

Vandal Damages Boat Windshield

A 10-year-old boy was cited last Monday afternoon as a result of vandalism that damaged the windshield of a small pleasure boat, police reported.

Thomas W. Webber of 1618 St. George St. told officers at 3:45 p. m. yesterday the windshield of his boat was damaged sometime over the weekend by youngsters throwing stones. He said the boat was stored on a vacant lot for the winter. Officers said the 10-year-old was cited for the vandalism.

Meanwhile, a would-be thief broke a coin slot on a candy

Patrolman H. E. Frontz discovered the damage at 2:20 a. m. while on patrol. Hoffman was notified and said he will advise the owner of the machine, Universal Vendors, Inc., of Philadelphia, officers said.

Paper Suspends At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The Indianapolis Times, a Scripps - Howard afternoon and Sunday newspaper, suspended publication Monday because, Manager Editor Irving Liebowitz said, "Economic factors do not permit our continuing to publish a newspaper of the kind Indianapolis should have."

The Indiana capital, with a population of nearly 500,000, was left with one afternoon newspaper, the News, and a morning paper, the Star, both published by Eugene C. Pulliam.

The Times had a daily circulation of 89,374 and a Sunday circulation of 101,000. It won the Pulitzer Prize in 1928 for fighting the Ku Klux Klan.

The Times descended from the Indianapolis Sun, founded in 1888 by Fred L. Purdy. The Sun later became the Indiana Daily Times, which was purchased by Scripps - Howard in 1922. Its present plant was built in 1924 and expanded in 1949.

Liebowitz said there were no plans to resume publication, but that the building and plant would be maintained intact in the event "someone wants to purchase the Times."

He indicated there was no purchase imminent and that placement bureaus were being set up to help find jobs for the Times' 450 employees.

Wellsville Board Takes Action On Various Matters

The Wellsville Board of Education Monday night adopted a new school calendar to meet state requirements and held a discussion on the Federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The calendar adds four days to the end of the year, making the closing date June 8, instead of June 3. The new law requires 180 days where the old calendar only provided for 176 days for the students.

The Wellsville school district is slated to receive $33,581 under the federal program. The amount each district is to receive is based on the number of children and families in the district with incomes of $2,000 or less a year.

THE 1960 census shows Wellsville had 126 boys and girls from 5 to 17 living in 192 families with an annual income of less than $2,000. The district also receives credit for 9 students in Yellow Creek Township and 10 in Madison Township falling in the same categories. There are 1,788 such children in Columbiana County, Supt. Lowell Myers said.

The board discussed the use of the money to be received and what categories would provide the most benefit for these students and the system.

Myers urged the board members to consider possible changes in the elementary district setup in the spring to improve the system.

He said a new district may have to be formed because of overcrowded conditions and pointed out the board must make a decision even if the proposed $885,000 building bond issue is passed at the Nov. 2 general election.

He declared the system is weak in various departments and distributed mimeographed sheets to each member suggesting possible ways students could be shifted to better utilize present facilities.

WILLIAM FERRALL, board member, said he doesn't favor mixing up the system until it is determined whether or not the bond issue passes. He said he feels other measures can be taken, even if the issue fails.

Russell Dysert, board president, said he has found it hard to "sell" some parts of the issue, primarily the proposal that some children will have to be bussed to school.

Dr. Janis Lauva, board vice president, said he feels the proposed program is good and that it will benefit all, even though changes and sacrifices will have to be made by some.

Myers said he was not pressing the matter, but wanted the board members to begin thinking about what has to be done and what can be done.

The board went on record endorsing the 1-mill levy for the Columbiana County Retarded Children's School at Elkton.

The Hammond Park Commission was granted permission to use the gymnasium for an indoor circus Nov. 15. The rental fee will be $25.

Ferrall urged the board to reconsider the wage increases granted custodian. He suggested that the increases be $175 a year across the board and pointed out those who have the opportunity for receiving the most overtime got the biggest raises.

Ferrall said two women custodians did not receive the same amount as the other custodians. This would mean $50 or more a year for them, over the raises given, and mean all would have received the same amount of increase.

Ferrall said the amount of work done should be considered. Myers said the women do cleaning and not heavy custodial work of the men.

The proposal was referred to the custodian committee after a lengthy discussion.

Ferrall also asked for the amount of increases granted administrators under the new program. They follow: Myers, $740 a year; William Menough, high school principal, $704; John Mackov, MacDonald principal, $604; Donald Lowe, assistant high principal, $532, and Samuel Linger, Garfield principal, $532.

Teachers and other personnel were granted wage increases at the last meeting. The funds were set up by state legislature.

THE BOARD also adopted a suggestion from Ferrall that grade books of teachers be turned into the superintendent's office at the end of each year to be kept until after the first grading period of the following term and then be destroyed.

This will be added to the board's policy book. Mrs. Lloyd suggested the board hold a special meeting to go over the entire policy book and bring it up to date.

Representatives of the Wellsville Physical Fitness class asked for permission to use school facilities for meetings. They were referred to William Menough, high school principal, and John Mackov, MacDonald principal, for available dates for the gyms.

Earl Mundy, supervisor of custodians, reported on the summer maintenance program and said arrangements are being made for a training program for custodians.

It was reported that new exhaust fans have been installed in the dressing rooms at Nicholson Stadium.

Heaf tuberculin tests will be given Oct. 25 to students in the first, third, fifth, seventh, 10th and 12th grades.

Myers said passage of State Issue No. 1 on the Nov. 2 ballot would be helpful to Wellsville. It would be equivalent of 10 mills for the district, he said. The issue would increase the state sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent on the dollar.

Contractor Continues East End Resurfacing

The Tri-State Asphalt Corp. of Martins Ferry today continued blacktop resurfacing of East End's main thoroughfare, a project interrupted frequently in the last week by wet weather.

The project covers Harvey Ave., Elizabeth St. and Pennsylvania Ave. from the state line to State St. When work halted at 4 p. m. Monday, the job had been completed from the state line as far west as Oakland Ave. except for the eastbound lane, which has been resurfaced as far as Neville School.

The work will continue westward toward State St. today. Parking is banned on both sides of Pennsylvania Ave. from Oakland Ave. to State St. Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vordrey reminded.

Pleas Court Acquits Man, 34, Of Murder

CLEVELAND (AP)—Alan E. Walch, 34, who spent almost eight months in Cuyahoga County jail, was acquitted of first-degree murder by a common pleas court jury Monday.

Walch was arrested Feb. 16 for the fatal shooting of bar owner Ben Feigenbaum on Feb. 10.

The prosecution charged that Walch shot Feigenbaum, 53, while he sat in his auto.

Walch, an ironworker, testified he was moving into a new apartment at the time of the slaying.

East End Mishap Damages 2 Cars

Two cars were damaged in a collision in East End today at 3 a. m., but no one was injured, police reported.

The mishap involved a 1961 two-door sedan driven by Harold W. Boyd, 21, of 724 Price St. and a 1959 model coupe operated by James Carter, 42, of 1047 Pennsylvania Ave., officers said. The crash damaged the front of Boyd's car and the right side of Carter's, police reported.

Boyd told police he was driving east on Pennsylvania Ave. and Carter pulled from the curb, then drove in front of him toward Virginia Ave. Carter reported he was driving south across the thoroughfare and did not see Boyd's car until too late.

Officers said Boyd's driver's license was suspended in court for a year, effective last July 1, but he was granted the privilege of driving to and from work.

Lawyer, 41, Claimed

CLEVELAND (AP)—Frank C. Crane Jr., 41, a lawyer for Greyhound Bus Lines, died Monday after leaving his office in downtown Cleveland. He served as mayor of Northfield Village for about a year, resigning the middle of last January.

Murder Charges Dropped Against West Virginian

WHEELING (AP)—Ohio County authorities have dropped murder charges against a Brooke County man who police say threw his children off a bridge here seven years ago and has since been a patient at Weston State Hospital.

Ohio County Prosecutor Arch W. Riley said charges have been dropped because John W. Turner of Wellsburg is considered insane by hospital officials.

Turner, 29 at the time his children were killed in the fall from the Fort Henry bridge was an unemployed steel worker. The body of his daughter, Betty Marie, 6, was found shortly after the incident on March 13, 1958. The body of his son Johnnie, 3, was believed to have been found two years later in the river.

Newsman Named

CLEVELAND (AP)—Russell H. Reeves, day managing editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, was named by the Cuyahoga County Commissioners Monday to a three-year term on the child welfare advisory committee.

The committee advises the county's child welfare department.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—I.A. Weaver, 94, inventor, engineer and founder of Weaver Manufacturing Co., Springfield, died Monday. Among Weaver's inventions was the three-wheel jack, which enables mechanics to raise and move automobiles around garages. He had more than 100 U.S. patents in his name.

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The letters below are in answer to one which appeared — with editorial comment — in this column last week relative to an incident in conjunction with a meeting of the Blue and White Nonpareil Club.

Mr. Duffy,

Because you have at your disposal a segment of the mass news media, you without justification and/or investigation feel free to formulate opinion to be adopted as attitude by the uninformed public. In the brief time that it took you to write your column, you have attempted to destroy by inference and innuendo what it has taken me 33 years to build, namely, my reputation. This I cannot allow to go unanswered.

"Member barred from meeting."

This was an erroneous and misleading statement. Mr. McCormack was informed that he was not welcome to view the movies of the East Liverpool-Stuebenville Central game. At no time did I say, nor did I hear anyone say, that he could not attend the Nonpareil Club meeting. This is a right which can only be abrogated by an expulsion vote of two-thirds of the club members.

I wish to clarify the popular misconception that the showing of the movies is part of the club meeting. This has been a courtesy extended jointly to the Blue and White Nonpareil Club and Lady Potter Boosters by Coach McNea. He has the prerogative to show or not show the movies, whichever he wishes.

As a gesture of consideration, I phoned McCormack to prevent him suffering the personal embarrassment of a public confrontation. In retrospect, I can honestly say that I made an error in judgment. This I admitted to you in our conversation Wednesday evening, but you made no mention of this in your column. (Errors of omission are often graver than errors of commission.)

You, as sports editor of the town's only newspaper, having never attended one meeting of the Nonpareil Club during my term in office have the unmitigated audacity to state, and I quote, "The incident has a tendency to indicate that the Nonpareil Club is being directed to too great a degree by the high school principal and the football coach rather than by its officers." For the record, Coach McNea and Mr. Pelini have attended only one meeting of the club during my term.

As a candidate for the East Liverpool Board of Education, irreparable damage has been done by your inference that I would be a stooge of administrators and/or any other person or group.

I further feel that Mr. Pelini and Coach McNea owe me an apology and should publicly absolve me from any complicity in the situation. If they have justifiable cause to publicly deny McCormack the privilege of viewing the movies then such cause also should be made known, otherwise he should receive their public apologies.

I, as a man, have always defended what I believe and will continue to do so, regardless of the consequences.

Reader Recalls 'Incident' In 1964

Dear Mr. Duffy,

After reading Joe McCormack's letter in Thursday's Review, I know just how he feels. After many years of trying to help football in East Liverpool, no matter who the coach or players were, he was looked upon as a spy or a spotter just because he is related in some way to coaches in nearby towns.

I myself had a similar incident happen to me on Nov. 12, 1964, the night before the East Liverpool-Alliance game.

I had backed the Potters at home and away not missing a single game since returning home from the Army in November of 1952 and backed the team anyway I could. I helped run the scoreboard from 1953 and never missed a game because I took pride in the job.

I never received anything for my services or did I ask for anything. The enjoyment I received from it was payment. In 1963, the Athletic Board paid me $3 a game for running the scoreboard. This money went right back into football, because my wife and two sons attended the games when possible.

I too was called a spy or a spotter on Nov. 12, 1964. On that day I was on my way home by way of Shadyside Ave. I ran into a secret practice session I guess no one was supposed to even know where the team was practicing.

There was so much dust arising from the field where the boys were running I did not know what was making the dust until the players came running and yelling "stone him." They threw rotten apples and hit my new automobile many times. They did not stop throwing at me until they realized who it was.

They threw up their hands to say hello and returned to the field. I sat there more or less dazed for a moment wondering what this was all about then an assistant coach came over to me and asked what I was doing there.

I explained I was on my way home and asked the assistant what the idea was of throwing apples at my car on a public highway. He said they thought I was from Alliance and Coach McNea had told the team to throw apples at my car not knowing who it was.

We talked for a few minutes about the game the next night with Alliance and the assistant said he was sorry about the apples hitting the car. I told him I didn't appreciate it myself, but to tell the team just to get me as many touchdowns against Alliance as apples hit my car.

I left and no more was said until the night of the Alliance game when I started up the ladder to the pressbox to operate the scoreboard. There, I was informed by Mr. Pelini, high school principal, that Mr. McNea did not want me to operate the clock anymore because I was watching his secret practice session the night before.

For this I too was called a spy after spending all the years as a loyal Potter fan and was thrown aside like other loyal football fans of East Liverpool since Mr. McNea became head football coach.

It appears Mr. McNea doesn't trust any one and has no faith in any fans regardless of what they had done through the years for East Liverpool football.

I will close now because I have to get ready to see the Potters play once again at Patterson Field against Newton Falls.

I wish the Potter team lots of luck but rotten apples to anyone who thinks I would hurt a Potter football team or a player in anyway to keep them from victory over their opponent no matter who they may be or where the game is played.

Twins Rush Home From Unfriendly LA

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, run right out of the Los Angeles ball park, were well pleased to be back on the more friendly turf of Metropolitan Stadium today for the last two games of the World Series with the pesky Dodgers.

Metropolitan Stadium is the only place in the Series the Twins have looked like the American League champions they are. At Dodger Stadium they were a bumbling, fumbling crew, dropping three straight to Los Angeles and falling behind three games to two.

Monday's 7-0 defeat by Sandy Koufax put them behind in the Series for the first time. Ten Twins fanned and only one of their four hits was struck with any authority. That was the last one by pinch hitter Sandy Veldespino in the ninth inning. By that time it was too little and too late.

In the meantime, the Dodgers played havoc with the record book as they tied their club mark with 14 hits, stole four bases—three by Willie Davis—and came through with spectacular plays in the field, making the Twins' defense look shabby by comparison.

The Dodgers, especially in the last three games, have astounded the Twins, as well as the critics, with an attack that has to be seen to be believed.

Minnesota Put Behind By Koufax

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1965

In all but one of the five games they have hit in double figures which thoroughly computed, by hand and machine, comes to a rousing .302 batting average. This is the same club that won a pennant with a .245 team batting average—lowest for a winner in National League history.

The Dodgers' lusty hitting has been accompanied by their vaunted speed. Their nine stolen bases tell only half the story. The Minnesota infield is still reeling from the Dodgers' bunt and run sorties.

No wonder Jim Kaat, the Twins' losing pitcher Monday, staggered out of Dodger Stadium

um muttering, "They ran us right out of the park."

And Twins' Manager Sam Mele observed: "They said they haven't been hitting all year. I guess they're taking it out on us."

Twins coach Billy Martin said:

"You're darn right we're glad to get out of here. We want to get back to where we can play them on a baseball field."

Judging from the way the fleet-footed Dodgers ran wild, the Twins will need a field with a net around it.

Willie Davis, the fastest of them all, stole bases all three times he got on. Maury Wills, the cleverest of them all, collected two doubles and two singles to equal the record of four hits in a game. Ron Fairly got three hits and drove in a run to take the lead in the Series with five runs batted in.

The Dodgers hopped on Kaat, their second game conqueror, in the first inning, scoring two runs on a leadoff double by Wills, a single by Jim Gilliam, and Frank Quilici's miff of Davis' sacrifice bunt.

The Dodgers got two more in the third on singles by Lou Johnson and Davis and a double by Fairly. They made it 5-0 in the fourth when Wills singled, stole second and scored on Gilliam's single. Dave Boswell had replaced Kaat at that point.

Stage Is Set For Tigers-Big Red Clash

Steubenville Goes To 4th; United Ranked No. 10 In Class A Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two unbeaten powers, No. 1 ranked Massillon and No. 4 rated Steubenville, battle it out Friday in the state's top scholastic football game of the week.

The Tigers, bidding for a second straight crown and their 11th mythical state championship, continued to hold first place in the weekly ratings.

The AP's high school selection board gave Massillon six first place votes and a total of 125 points compared to 87 points for runner-up Sandusky. Warren Harding was third.

Steubenville, on the strength of a 40-8 victory over Wellsville, jumped all the way from ninth to fourth place and has a chance to climb even higher with an upset over the Tigers.

Massillon knocked off arch-rival Niles McKinley last week, 22-8, bouncing Niles from the elite circle. Dayton Roth, a newcomer to the top ten, held ninth place.

Following Steubenville were Middletown, Upper Arlington, Columbus Waterson, Cincinnati Moeller, Roth and Zanesville.

There was a new leader in the Class A division as Dover St. Joseph replaced Fairport Harbor at the top with 70 points compared to Harbor's 66.

Rounding out the small school list were Marion Catholic, Millersport, Johnstown Monroe, Lake of Stark County, Tuscarawas Valley, Chaucney - Dover and Lancaster Fenwick (a tie for eighth) and United Hanoverton, which broke into the top ten replacing once-beaten Columbus St. Mary.

All the top-rated teams in both divisions have 5-0 records.

Maury Pays Tribute To Lefty

Wills Claims He Relaxes Too Much Behind Koufax

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — Maury Wills, the Los Angeles Dodgers shortstop, has pointed out one major failing in Sandy Koufax.

"It's easier to play behind pitchers like Drysdale and Osteen who let the batters hit the ball," Wills explained. "Sandy strikes out so many, you have a tendency to relax out in the field—take a nap."

Wills paid that tribute to Koufax as he sat in the Dodger dressing room, printing the important facts about Monday's fifth game of the World Series on the game ball before presenting it to the ace Dodger left-hander.

He patiently printed the score but there was no room to detail the exploits of himself or Koufax, who snared the hero's role as the Dodgers whipped the Twins 7-0 and took a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Series.

Koufax, beaten in the second game of the Series, met his challenge by pitching a four-hitter—he had a perfect game going until the fifth inning when Harmon Killebrew got a single on a misjudged fly—and struck out his usual 10 batters.

Wills, who met his challenge by stealing his third base, under rather unusual circumstances in the fourth inning, stroked a record-tying four hits and finished the day with a .455 batting average while starting three doubleplays in the field.

Despite their excellent performances, both were somewhat subdued as they talked to reporters.

Kaline Foot Surgery Reported Successful

DETROIT (AP) — Corrective foot surgery on Al-Kaline of the Detroit Tigers was pronounced successful Monday by Dr. Leslie Mitchell.

Dr. Mitchell made two bone corrections in the first and second toes of Kaline's left foot. The veteran outfielder has been hampered over the past two years by the defect, which he has had since childhood.

"I'm not disappointed with the way I pitched," said Koufax, "but I have pitched better. I was behind the hitters too much and I became awfully tired after the seventh inning. It's been a long season."

Before leaving to have his arthritic elbow packed in ice, Koufax was asked what he was throwing.

"Fast balls and curves," he said. "That's all I've got."

He also has the game ball, on which Wills laboriously printed the score of the game as he talked about his role in the game.

"I felt good," he admitted. "When I walked into the batting cage I felt strong. Then the first time I went to bat I looked up and everybody was on top of me. There was no way I could bunt. They took the bunt away from me."

So he lined a ground rule double to right.

He later added another double, collected two singles and brought his hit total to 10—with in two of the six-game Series record and three of the seven-game mark.

Texas Holds 1st, Faces Razorbacks

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Arkansas gets another big chance to rock the boat in college football's power struggle this week and the raging Razorbacks are hoping to knock off two tough birds with one punch.

The Razorbacks, who stretched their winning streak — longest among major schools — to 16 last weekend but couldn't gain ground in the national ratings, meet potent Texas, No. 1 in the Associated Press' Top Ten for the third successive week, at Little Rock Saturday.

Nebraska pushed Texas to the limit in the weekly AP poll, falling only three points short of the Longhorns' leading total and remaining comfortably ahead of the third-ranked Razorbacks. Texas pulled 438 points and 22 first place votes to Nebraska's 435 and 16 in the ballot of 48 sports writers and broadcasters.

Arkansas, which played bridesmaid to national champion Alabama last year — and then beat Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl — received four of the remaining 10 first place votes and 384 points. Points are determined on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for a second place vote, etc.

The Top Ten remained intact — with a couple of position changes — after last Saturday's action followed. But something is bound to give this week when Texas and Arkansas match their 4-0 records in the Southwest Conference headliner and four other powers face stiff tests.

Arkansas, which nipped Texas 14-13 a year ago, walloped Baylor 38-7 last week. The Longhorns blanked Oklahoma 17-0. Nebraska, even more impressive in a 37-0 romp over Wisconsin, opens its Big Eight Conference campaign at Kansas State — a heavy favorite to make it five out of five this season.

Fourth-ranked Michigan State, which changed places with Georgia after downing Big Ten champion Michigan 24-7, entertains improving Ohio State, Georgia, which had its hands full before subduing Clemson 23-9 for a 4-0 mark, visits always-tough Florida State in a night game.

Southern California, which made the biggest advance — from eighth to sixth — via its 34-0 rout of Washington, plays unbeaten, once-tied Stanford and seventh-ranked Purdue, a 17-14 winner at Iowa, takes on rebounding Michigan. Both the Trojans and boiler-makers are 3-0-1.

Eighth-ranked Notre Dame takes the week off before tackling USC Oct. 23. No. 9 Florida meets North Carolina State and No. 10 Mississippi State visits Memphis State.

The Irish dropped one place in the standings, as did Purdue while the Gators and Tigers switched positions. Notre Dame, 3-1, topped Army 17-0; Florida, 3-1, trimmed Mississippi by the same score and Mississippi State, 4-0, clubbed Mississippi Southern 27-9 last week.

Among those waiting in the wings for the upset bug to bite the Top Ten are Duke, Missouri and West Virginia, all unbeaten in four starts, and oncoming Alabama, which has taken three in a row after being surprised by Georgia in its opener.

1. Texas (22) 4-0 438
2. Nebraska (16) 4-0 435
3. Arkansas (4) 4-0 384
4. Michigan State (3) 4-0 335
5. Georgia (2) 4-0 280
6. South. Calif. (3) 4-0 204
7. Purdue (1) 3-0-1 187
8. Notre Dame 3-1 162
9. Florida 3-1 98
10. Miss. State 4-0 79

Others receiving votes include: Alabama, Duke, Kentucky, Louisiana State, Missouri, Ohio State, Stanford, Texas Western, Washington State, West Virginia.

The death will not affect Patterson's scheduled title bout with heavyweight champion Cassius Clay set for Nov. 22 in Las Vegas, Patterson, however, will delay his departure for Las Vegas until next week.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

IN MEMORIAM

IN loving remembrance of Hazel Slack, who was called home one year ago today. Sad and sudden was the call. Of one so dear and loved by all. Her loving heart had ceased to beat. Before we knew it, she was gone. A bitter grief, a shock severe. To part with one we loved so dear. God loved her too and thought it best. So He took her home to eternal rest. One who loved her best can tell, the heartache of not saying a last farewell. Sadly missed by Family.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks for the many kind words and acts of sympathy from our relatives, many friends and neighbors at the time of the recent death of David E. Wucherer. Special thanks to the Hugh Finlay Home for their considerate attention during his long illness... Mrs. David Wucherer and Family

Junior Editors Quiz on GREAT LAKES

QUESTION: How were the Great Lakes formed and what is their importance?

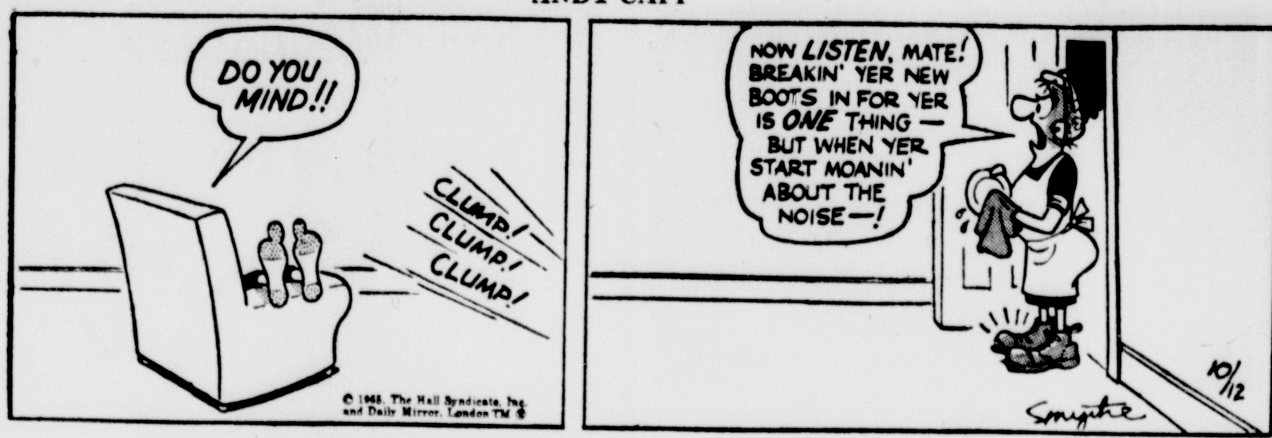

ANSWER: About a million years ago, it became bitterly cold in North America. A series of four great ice sheets formed over the northern part, each withdrawing as the weather became warmer. The last sheet was about 25,000 years ago, and we show how far down it pushed over North America at upper right. Tremendous snowfall had compressed a layer of ice two miles deep and as it moved southward it gouged out valleys deep into the underlying rock which later filled with water. The Great Lakes, shown in outline, were formed in this way.

The five Great Lakes, Superior, Michigan, Huron, Erie and Ontario, have proven of the greatest possible value to America, as they are at the heart of our present industrial might. The world's most important source of iron ore, the Mesabi Range, lies near the western tip of Lake Superior. This means the ore can be shipped by lake steamers down Lake Michigan to Chicago and other manufacturing cities, where it can be converted into steel. It is also shipped down Lake Huron to Detroit, where so many of our cars are manufactured. Coal, coming from the Appalachian coal fields, is sent to Lake Erie and transshipped. Grain and timber also can be sent anywhere in the world from the lakes, through the Saint Lawrence Seaway to the ocean or to the Gulf of Mexico through the Chicago Canal.

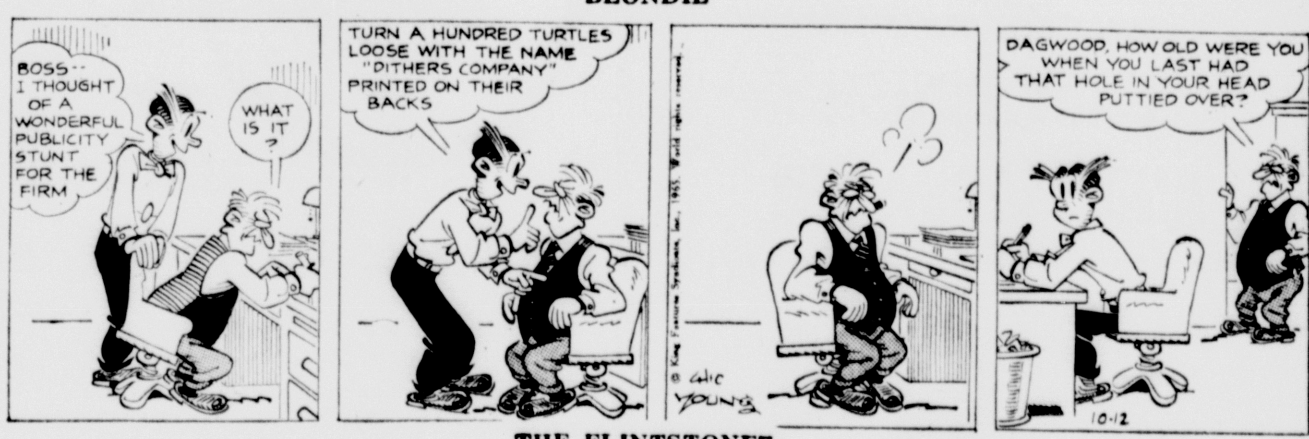

FOR YOU TO DO: Look up the fascinating story of steel manufacture in an encyclopedia and you will realize why the shipping of iron ore through Lake Superior is so important. It could be sent to manufacturing centers by rail, but this would be more expensive.

Jerry Lehner of Melrose Park, Ill., wins this week's grand prize of a 15 volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

How Can I?
ANNE ASHLEY

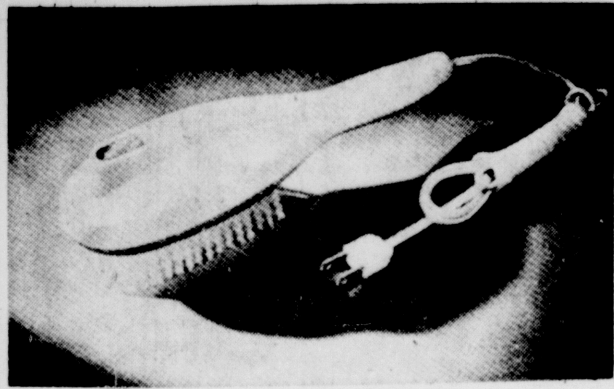

Q.—How can I remove oil stains from brick?
A.—Dissolve a pound of trisodium phosphate in a gallon of water, mix this with whiting to form a paste, then spread a thick layer of it over the oil stain, let dry thoroughly, scrape it off, and wash with clear water.

Q.—Is there anything I can do about a dish that is cracked, but not broken?
A.—You can often obliterate the crack and strengthen the dish just by putting it into a pan of milk and boiling for about 45 minutes.

Q.—How can I clean a discolored cork bulletin board?
A.—Go over it lightly with very fine sandpaper, which usually strips the soil and grime off the cork surface very nicely. Then, after wiping off any dust residue, apply a thinned coat of fresh, white shellac to the board.

Q.—How can I soften up hardened glue?
A.—By placing a few drops of vinegar in the container.

The first patent issued in the United States was to John Ruggles in 1836 for his invention of a device to increase the power of railroad locomotives and to prevent their wheels from sliding.
